

ADENAUER GETS SOVIET PLEDGE TO RELEASE ALL GERMANS HELD IN RUSSIA

DIPLomatic TIES AGREED ON BUT NO GAINS MADE ON REICH UNITY

Committees to Begin Work on Developing Trade — Chancellor Preserves Links to Western Alliance.

By STANLEY JOHNSON
MOSCOW, Sept. 14 (AP)—

Chancellor Adenauer flew home today with an agreement to establish diplomatic relations between the Soviet Union and West Germany and the Kremlin's promise to return all Germans still held in the Soviet Union.

Before taking off, the 79-year-old West German leader gave Soviet Premier Bulganin an informal invitation to visit him in Bonn.

There was no apparent progress made on the other key issue raised by Adenauer in the five-day conference—the reunification of his divided country.

Joint Communiqué.

A joint communiqué signed by Adenauer and Bulganin said only that the agreement to exchange ambassadors "will further the settlement of pending problems affecting the whole of Germany, and must thus help the solution of the principal national problems of the German people—the re-establishment of the unity of the German democratic state."

The two delegations also agreed to set up committees to work for development of German-Soviet trade.

In an exchange of letters with Bulganin at the close of the conference, Adenauer also put on the record what he called "German rights which we cannot relinquish." In his letter he insisted that the fixing of Germany's final border must be done only in a final peace treaty, and that his government still insists on its claim to speak for all of Germany.

Preserves Alliance Ties. After leaving for home, Adenauer told a news conference that in agreeing to establish relations with the Russians, he had not abandoned any of his government's ties and obligations to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Western European Union.

He added that the Russians had not demanded this of him, although Bulganin had said at the outset of the talks that West German membership in NATO and WEU was the chief barrier to German reunification.

"I want to declare emphatically that no secret deal or pact of any kind was made between us and the Soviet government," Adenauer told the reporters.

The joint communiqué made no mention of the German prisoners but Adenauer said Bulganin and Soviet Communist Party Chief Nikita Khrushchev had agreed to return the 9626 Germans the Russians admit holding as war criminals.

The Chancellor added that Bulganin and Khrushchev had said they knew of no other Germans held by Russia, but had promised to investigate and to hand over any they found. The West Germans have claimed

U.S. CONTINUES PRESSING IN U.N. FOR PRESIDENT'S INSPECTION PLAN

Russian Raises Question Indicating Serious Consideration but Still Balks at Stating Stand.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 14—Concentrated effort of the United States to insure United Nations approval of the Eisenhower plan for exchange of military blueprints by the United States and Russia and mutual air, ground and sea inspection to prevent surprise attack by either nation, continued today in the Disarmament Commission subcommittee.

Although Western Allies in the subcommittee, Britain, France and Canada, have made no firm commitment to subscribe to the plan, it was a foregone conclusion they would indorse it when the issue came to a vote. Meanwhile, the strategy was to smoke out Russian views from Arkady A. Sobolev.

Early Approval Unlikely. It was learned from an authoritative American source that the United States delegation, headed by Harold E. Stassen, presidential adviser on disarmament affairs, did not expect approval in the subcommittee of the Eisenhower proposal before the U.N. General Assembly opens next Tuesday.

The subcommittee will continue to hold closed sessions in an effort to reach accord on the nature of its report to the parent Disarmament Commission. That step probably will not be taken until the Geneva Big Four conference of foreign ministers is underway Oct. 27. Then high-level decisions may be made.

A resolution asking the 60-nation General Assembly to approve the Eisenhower plan is in preparation for presentation at a propitious time by the Disarmament Commission. What the United States seeks is unanimous approval by the 12 commission members including the Soviet Union.

Introducing Question. Representatives of the five-nation subcommittee yesterday were intrigued by a question put by Sobolev to Stassen during a session which was described by Stassen as the "most worthwhile give and take, back and forth discussion of the subject of inspection and control" held since the meetings began Aug. 29.

The Soviet delegate wanted to know whether the United States intended to extend to other nations its plan for mutual military disclosures and inspections. Stassen said the question was important and deserved a carefully prepared reply at a meeting in the near future, it was learned.

He suggested, too, that Sobolev give his considered reasons when possible for making the inquiry. An American source surmised that Stassen was "probing" to determine whether the Soviet Union was simply pretending to analyze the Eisenhower plan or if Moscow really was giving it the serious consideration promised by Premier Bulganin.

It also was learned that the United States is not perturbed by the seeming tardiness of its allies in the subcommittee to indorse forthrightly the plan, except to praise it as an inspiring proposal by a peace-loving nation to open the gate to universal disarmament.

It is known that Stassen, confident of General Assembly endorsement of the inspection plan when the chips are down, with or without Russian approval, does not want to "rush the pace" toward the day of decision. The United States realized, it was said, the suggestion had provoked "study around the world."

Attention of the subcommittee must be given, too, to the Faure plan for restriction of military budgets, and to the Adenauer plan recommending establishment of a system of arms inspection by West and East in a zone where each has forces confronting the other.

Stassen made a formal statement to the subcommittee yesterday, declaring it was the expectation of the United States that the U.N. Assembly would act appropriately to attain the objectives of the Eisenhower plan.

Unanimity Urged.

He said his government hoped that each member of the subcommittee, the Disarmament Commission and the General Assembly would conclude after careful study that it should join such action and thus assure unanimity before the close of December of the Assembly session. The form of the resolution is subject to negotiation, added.

In what was evidently an outline of what the United States wanted the resolution to include, it was learned that Stassen made preliminary suggestions as to the content, inviting modifications, in which the General Assembly would be asked to note the work of the Disarmament Commission subcommittee.

The resolution then would set forth the Eisenhower proposal, made at Geneva for the exchange of military information and co-operative air inspection, extended to include ground and sea observation. The Assembly would be asked to declare that early execution of the plan would:

1. Contribute to the reduction of international tensions.
2. Provide a safeguard against major surprise attack.
3. Lessen the fear of war.
4. Assist in the development release has been promised are likely to turn up at Hong Kong and when the other 19 Americans known to be in Chinese prisons will be freed.

A joint announcement by Johnson and Wang Saturday said machinery had been set up so these 19 could "expeditiously exercise their right" to return home. Johnson was understood to have asked today for clarification of the word "expeditiously," since the Chinese clearly have their own interpretation.

Johnson also was reported to have asked Wang to indicate the exact places where the 19 are imprisoned and what are the charges against them. At least three are known to be serving life sentences on espionage charges which United States officials insist were trumped up.

U.S. Officials Pledge to Cut Red Tape for Returnees.

HONG KONG, Sept. 14 (AP)—United States consular officials pledged today "to cut all the red tape possible" to assure the speedy and comfortable homecoming of some 20 Americans expected to emerge here from Red China.

Red China announced last Tuesday at United States-Chinese talks in Geneva that 12 Americans against whom no formal charges were filed were free to go. On Saturday it said 10 others in prison or under house arrest would be freed "within a few days."

The United States consular officials here indicated four alien spouses and one alien mother believed to be accompanying the Americans will be swiftly accredited to enter the United States.

The American and British Red Cross started a visit on the Chinese border 32 miles away, but the daily train from Communist Canton has brought no Americans. While there was no definite word, officials felt this week would see at least some of the Americans arrive.

Two Presbyterian missionaries—Miss Sarah E. Perkins and Miss Dorothy Middleton—were reported to have been at Canton since Sunday. Americans here were unable to understand why the Reds are detaining them.

Vice Consul Robert Aylward planned to meet the returning Americans personally at the border. Passport renewals will be expedited, he said. The Red Cross and consulate are ready to advance transportation money. The returnees will be taken to hotels, friends' homes, or missions.

NATIONALIST PILOTS REPORT SINKING 11 RED CHINA JUNKS

TAIPEI, Formosa, Sept. 14 (UPI)—Nationalist fighter-bombers sank 11 Chinese Communist junks and heavily damaged "many others" yesterday in a raid off the South China coast, an Air Force communiqué said.

Nationalist planes attacked a concentration of more than 50 armed Communist junks in Shaoan bay near Swatow, according to the Air Force.

of a comprehensive international agreement for the regulation, limitation and balanced reduction of all armed forces and armaments.

5. Advance the cause of peace.

Immediate Effect. In the tentative form Stassen was said to have sketched for the subcommittee, the resolution would recommend that the Eisenhower plan should be placed into effect immediately. Other states then might decide what contributions they could make to its execution and consider extending it on an appropriate, reciprocal basis to their own territories.

It would also recommend that the major powers continue negotiations for arms reductions and abolition of all weapons of mass destruction, giving primary attention to the subject of inspection, reporting and control.

It is the United States thesis that, as no system has been devised to assure detection of atomic production or weapons, international machinery should be established to observe military movements, thus guarding against surprise attack. That step would stimulate disarmament negotiations, it was said.

The resolution then would set forth the Eisenhower proposal, made at Geneva for the exchange of military information and co-operative air inspection, extended to include ground and sea observation. The Assembly would be asked to declare that early execution of the plan would:

1. Contribute to the reduction of international tensions.
2. Provide a safeguard against major surprise attack.

ADENAUER HOME, EXPECTS P.O.W. RELEASE SOON

Gets Triumphant Welcome in Bonn—Believes Bulganin Will Keep Word.

BONN, Sept. 14 (AP)—Chancellor Adenauer returned to Bonn today from his historic talks with Soviet leaders and declared "I do not doubt that Premier Bulganin will keep his word to release Germans still held in Russia."

The 79-year-old West German leader was given a triumphant welcome home from the talks in Moscow where he agreed to establish diplomatic relations between West Germany and the Soviet Union.

On the Soviet promise to return German war prisoners of prime importance to the German people—Adenauer said:

"Premier Bulganin told me that even before I arrived in Bonn, action to return the German war prisoners would already be started.

List of Names.

"Bulganin, as well as Khrushchev (the Communist party boss), further declared—that if other Germans are still held in the Soviet Union, we can submit a list of their names.

"They will then try to find them."

Adenauer proudly told a crowd of hundreds of West Germans at the Bonn-Cologne airport:

"We can therefore hope that the German war prisoners and all others still held in prison there will return soon to our fatherland."

He made no direct comment on reunification of Germany, the big issue upon which no apparent progress was made in the five-day conference in Moscow. But he hinted at future negotiations with the Russians in these words:

"It was no easy conference. It will afford an opportunity for further talks over political and all other questions. The German delegation stood solidly in Moscow for our fatherland."

Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano, who returned a few minutes before Adenauer, said:

"We have had difficult days and difficult negotiations. But I believe that we have returned with a good conscience. I am firmly convinced that the first German prisoners will return in the next few days."

Opposition View.

Carlo Schmid, the only member of the Socialist opposition party in Adenauer's delegation, commented:

"The Russians place the greatest importance on the es-

Wilson, Brucker Meet on Cut In Army Fund to Balance Budget

Point Where Economy Stops, Security Starts, Military Chief Says—Comment on Security Setup.

DETROIT, Sept. 14 (AP)—Army spending—whether it will be trimmed to help the Administration balance the national budget—was the subject of a private talk today between Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker.

Brucker and Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Army chief of staff, flew to Detroit last night to confer with the vacating Defense Secretary at his suburban home. It was expected they would seek to impress Wilson with the importance of keeping the Army budget at roughly nine billion dollars—its share of the estimated 24-billion-dollar defense budget for the current fiscal year.

The 79-year-old West German leader was given a triumphant welcome home from the talks in Moscow where he agreed to establish diplomatic relations between West Germany and the Soviet Union.

On the Soviet promise to return German war prisoners of prime importance to the German people—Adenauer said:

"Premier Bulganin told me that even before I arrived in Bonn, action to return the German war prisoners would already be started.

Brucker was asked whether he would testify at Wexler's hearing, which began here yesterday.

"It wouldn't be necessary," Brucker said. "This hearing is a tempest in a teapot."

Attorney's Contention.

Attorney Charles C. Lockwood, who is representing Wexler at the hearing, said he had asked that Brucker and Kelly testify at the hearing because the board of review hearing the case was officially unaware that the Army had apologized to Kelly for its charges against him.

"The apology notification has to go through channels and merely hasn't gotten there yet," Brucker explained. "I'm going to cut the red tape and get it there."

Reporters asked Brucker if there were any other mistakes in the case similar to the false accusation of Kelly.

"That is for the board of review to determine. There is no reason to get excited about this hearing. However, the case of Dr. Kelly merited non-routine handling."

Parliament were on hand to greet him.

The parliamentary delegation of Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union thanked their leader for his successful negotiations for the release of all those Germans still held in the Soviet Union, and said, "It is hoped that the restoration of democratic relations will contribute to the solution of other questions."

The chairman of the second largest party in Adenauer's Government coalition, Thomas Dehler of the Free Democrats, said flatly he was deeply disappointed. He charged the agreement to establish diplomatic relations was a "tragic" recognition of Germany's present status.

DIXON-YATES CASE IS SENT BACK TO SEC

Appeals Court Says Circumstances Changed When Contract Was Canceled.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—The United States Court of Appeals has sent the long-argued Dixon-Yates case back to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The action is a step in permitting the SEC to disentangle the case. President Eisenhower personally directed cancellation of the Administration-sponsored power contract last July 11 after opponents had appealed the SEC's approval of related financing.

In remanding the case, the court noted that the Atomic Energy Commission had been directed to cancel its contract with Mississippi Valley Generating Co. That is the name of the new corporation set up by the Dixon-Yates utility holding company syndicate to build and operate a power plant at West Memphis, Ark., to feed power into the Tennessee Valley Authority system at Memphis, Tenn.

Observing that the parties are presently engaged in an effort to reach a mutually accepted basis for such termination, the court said:

"A substantial change in circumstances has occurred since the commission's order was issued."

The SEC had approved first-step financing plans for the venture last Feb. 8, permitting Middle South Utilities, Inc., and the Southern Co. to invest $5,000,000 in the new corporation.

An appeal of that decision was taken to the court by the state of Tennessee and a group of cities and public power agencies using electricity from the TVA system. The court received briefs and heard oral arguments last spring and had the case under advisement when Mr. Eisenhower ordered the contract canceled. The SEC asked the court Aug. 26 to remand the matter to the commission for reconsideration.

Another SEC action in the Dixon-Yates matter still is pending. That is a Dixon-Yates petition for authority to borrow up to $120,000,000 from a group of insurance companies and banks. After cancellation was ordered, the commission suspended the case indefinitely.

The Federal Power Commission never has acted on a petition by several Dixon-Yates officers for authority to hold in-locks on directorships in the new corporation and the parent holding companies.

COUNTY COUNCIL MEMBER SEEKS VALUATION CUT ON LADUE HOME

James A. Singer Says
$14,120 Assessment
Was Raised to $22,
600—Realty Man Is
His Witness.

James A. Singer, a member of the St. Louis county council, protested to the State Tax Commission today that the assessed valuation of his home at 53 Picardy lane, Ladue, was excessive.

Singer told the commission, meeting at St. Louis county courthouse, to hear a large number of appeals from tax assessments, that the assessed valuation of his house had been raised to $22,600 from $14,120. This included the house and two adjoining lots.

The house, built in 1927, was bought by Singer in 1940 for $14,750 and he invested $17,256 for improvements and purchase of an adjoining lot, the commission said.

A tennis court constructed on the property in 1948 cost $3657 and a swimming pool was built in 1953 for $7893, Singer testified. He estimated his total investment in the property at about $32,000.

Realty Man a Witness.
E. L. Bakewell Jr., a real estate dealer appearing as a witness for Singer, told the commission the present sales value of the Ladue property was about $52,500. He said the swimming pool and tennis court may or may not increase the value of the property, depending upon the view of prospective purchasers.

Singer, an attorney, contended the house and lots would have to have a market value of about $75,000 to justify the current assessment of $2,600. He urged the proper assessment should be $10,870.

James M. Robertson, commission chairman, said the tax commission members visited Singer's home and other properties being considered in appeals yesterday.

When Robertson said the commission had been graciously received by Mrs. Singer and that it had inspected the tennis court and swimming pool, Singer smiled and said: "I wish I had known you were coming."

85 Per Cent Increase.
Another Ladue resident, Hugh M. F. Lewis, a bank official, today protested the assessment of his home at 9365 Clayton road. He said his one-story frame, prefabricated bungalow had been assessed at $17,195, representing an 85 per cent increase from the previous $9270.

John A. Wehmeyer, real estate officer for St. Louis Union Trust Co., said the fair market value of the Lewis home, which cost $26,000 new in 1948, was about $35,000. Wehmeyer's estimate was based, not on reproduction costs, but on sales prices of comparable property.

Wehmeyer told the commission property values generally had doubled since 1939. Bakewell said residential property had increased in value to the extent that it would cost two to two and one-half times more to build the same house now as in 1927.

A plea for reduction of an 85 per cent increase in the tax assessment on Lucas-Hunt Village, 606-family housing development on Lucas-Hunt road, was made before the commission yesterday.

Paul F. Plummer, attorney for Lucas-Hunt Village Corp., said the rise in the assessment from $1,114,000 to $2,060,900 had been arbitrary, unconstitutional and discriminatory.

The commission will be here several weeks to hear more than 600 appeals. Most of the cases grew out of the commission's order that county assessments be brought up from an average of 18 per cent of market value to 30 per cent.

It was contended by Plummer and other attorneys who appeared yesterday that the commission's order was unfair in that it did not apply to the whole state, and that the county's efforts at compliance were clearly illegal because they were blanket increases, not

DOG IN SEWER RESISTS RESCUE, YIELDS TO MEAT

Involved in Proposal.

A frightened young dog, trapped in a storm sewer at North Eleventh street and Cass avenue, resisted rescue efforts for more than two hours today, but finally yielded to a freshly-cooked hamburger.

The hamburger was provided by a nearby restaurant owner to Humane Society Officer James Loggins. Loggins, whose feet were held by policemen, lowered himself through an open manhole and held out the morsel to the dog. While the animal nibbled, Loggins grabbed it by the scruff of the neck and pulled the dog to freedom.

Before that, the dog refused offers of raw hamburger, had successfully avoided being snared by the officer and had remained away from reach when efforts were made to smoke it out.

Although more than 50 persons gathered at the scene, the small dog was unclaimed when rescued and was taken to the Humane Society kennels. Because of the small size of the sewer openings, Loggins thinks that the dog, of mixed breed, may have been pushed into the sewer.

based on individual reappraisal of the properties concerned.

"This was the operation of an arbitrary formula that could not be defended at all," Plummer said. Commissioner John A. Williams of Pacific interrupted to say that the commission's objective had been to equalize assessments. Any so-called "blanket increases," he said, were the decision of local authorities.

Testimony by Harold C. Narow, manager of Lucas-Hunt Village, indicated that the 49-acre project was purchased from the Federal Housing Authority in 1942 for $2,792,000 and the development's true value now was in the neighborhood of $4,000,000.

While the assessment for Lucas-Hunt, in an unincorporated area, was raised by 85 per cent, the assessment for 1350-unit Aububon Park project in Richmond Heights was raised only 60 per cent, the commission was told. Lucas-Hunt contended its assessment already was abnormally high when the new increase was ordered by the county.

Manhasset Village Raised.

Fred Eppenberger, counsel for Manhasset Village, a housing project adjacent to Aububon Park, intervened in the hearing. He said Manhasset Village's assessment also had been raised by 85 per cent, but the project had not filed an appeal because it did not learn of the increase until too late.

Eppenberger asked that the commission hand down a relief order that would apply to Manhasset Village as well as to other petitioners. Otherwise, he said, Manhasset Village would have no recourse but to seek relief by court action.

Another case yesterday involved vacant property at the northwest corner of Clayton road and Brentwood boulevard, Clayton, owned by Andrew Sansone and now sublet to Randolph Development Corp. The assessment has raised from $9000 to $100,800, then cut to $92,910 by the Board of Equalization.

Appealing from the $92,910 figure, Donald J. Meyer, attorney for Randolph, said a fair assessment on the tract, about 300 by 300 feet, would be $50,000.

Legality of an assessment increase on Kline's Inc. store at 7620 Forsyth boulevard in Clayton was attacked by David L. Cornfeld and Sam Elson, attorneys for the store. The increase on the store itself was from $150,140 to $165,140 and on the land from $15,600 to $39,000.

Elson said the commission's failure to include all counties whose assessment levels were below 18 per cent in its order to 26 counties was discriminatory and hence illegal, since the law requires assessments to be on a uniform basis.

With reference to the increase in the land valuation Elson said the action of the Board of Equalization was unconstitutional in selecting only commercially-zoned land in Clayton for reassessment. He also charged the board had failed to give Kline's due notice of the assessment hike.

3 BREWERIES SAY BUDWEISER PRICE CUT HURT THEM

Falstaff, Griesedieck and Carling Executives Testify at FTC Hearing.

Representatives of three breweries in the St. Louis area testified today that their companies' sales in the area dropped sharply after Anheuser-Busch, Inc., reduced the wholesale price of Budweiser beer here in June 1954.

The breweries represented by the witnesses are Falstaff Brewing Corp., Griesedieck Brothers Brewery Co., and Carling Brewing Co., which purchased by Griesedieck-Western Brewery Co.

Harold C. Meurer, St. Louis sales manager for Falstaff, and Charles A. Ens Jr., city sales manager for Griesedieck, testified as Government witnesses at the hearing at the Federal Building on a charge of price discrimination brought against Anheuser-Busch by the Federal Trade Commission.

Lost Business, He Says.

Meurer told FTC Examiner Frank Hier, who is conducting the hearing that the Budweiser price cut to $2.35 a case, the same wholesale price other local beers were selling for, caused Falstaff brewery "to lose business."

"Some of our customers more or less sampled, Budweiser or a popular beer," Meurer said. "We did lose a number of customers."

After Budweiser wholesale prices were increased to original levels last March, he said, Falstaff recovered about 70 per cent of the customers it had lost.

Meurer did not testify as to the extent of the company's sales loss, but told a reporter later that the price reduction by Anheuser-Busch caused Falstaff sales to drop from 34 per cent of the local market to 28 per cent.

He testified that the Budweiser price cut caused Griesedieck sales in the area to drop to 4 per cent of the beer sold here. He told a reporter that before the cut the brewery had 13 per cent of the local market.

After Budweiser prices were restored to their original levels, Ens testified, Griesedieck sales rose to between 8 and 8.5 per cent of the local market, where they now stand.

Sharp Cut in Sales.

Henry G. Sewing Jr., sales and merchandising manager for Griesedieck-Western and now with Carling, said:

"After Budweiser prices were made the same as ours [Hyde Park '75] and Stag, there was a sharp reduction in our sales, most of which resulted from the price cut. Sales accelerated after Budweiser's price went back up."

Television has changed the beer-drinking habits of Americans and has contributed to decreased sales of nationally-advertised beers, John Hallquist Jr., director of sales training at Anheuser-Busch testified yesterday. He was the first witness called to testify before the Government.

The jail has for a number of years been rated as acceptable by the federal bureau and houses prisoners for United States courts in the Eastern District of Missouri and in East St. Louis.

"Before World War I," Hallquist said, "75 per cent of all the beer sold in the United States was draft beer. At present, 76 per cent of all the beer sold is packaged."

"Television has been a great factor in this change—first because of advertising, most of which is directed at sales of package goods, and second, because more beer is consumed in homes by television viewers."

Regional Beers Benefit.

Television advertising also has contributed to increased sales of beers sold on a local and regional basis and decreased sales of "national" beers, he said. He named as "national" beers Budweiser, Schlitz, Pabst, Miller, Blatz and Falstaff.

The FTC has charged that Anheuser-Busch last year cut wholesale prices in the St.

New Financial Problems Arise, Block Maline Sewer Solution

Concern Paying for Preliminary Work on Trunk Line — No Source of Revenue.

Serious new financial problems have arisen in connection with the Metropolitan St. Louis Sewer District's efforts to find a way to build a major trunk sewer to eliminate the Maline creek pollution problem. John M. Bogdanor, chairman of the district's board of trustees, said today.

He said the problems concerned how much of the preliminary costs of the project could be included in the amount which a contractor would be expected to bear initially, under the method of financing by special tax bills.

Bogdanor, who discussed the Maline creek problem yesterday with St. Louis county officials, said if these preliminary costs could not be borne by a contractor, the district would be faced with the problem of paying them. The sewer district has no source of operating revenue at present and its funds on hand will be exhausted by mid-1956.

Under the tax bill financing method, a contractor would finance the cost of sewer construction himself and, on completion of the project, would receive in payment tax items against individual pieces of property in the area served by the sewer.

Preliminary Costs.
The preliminary costs, Bogdanor said, would be for engineering, for right-of-way acquisition and for drawing up and issuing the tax bills in proper form.

He said the preliminary costs problem would be referred for an opinion to Carl Trauernicht, a lawyer specializing in tax matters.

Trauernicht also has been asked to determine what data must be assembled in order for

Louis area while maintaining premium prices throughout the rest of the nation. As a result, the brewery increased its share of the local market from 14 to 40 per cent and injured competitors, it was alleged.

He said the preliminary costs problem has caused sewage to back up and become a health menace. The metropolitan district has charged that the obstruction was created by the Woodson Gardens subdivision, the St. John sewage system. The St. John sewage system was permitted by FTC Examiner Frank Hier, who is conducting the hearing that the Budweiser price cut to $2.35 a case, the same wholesale price other local beers were selling for, caused Falstaff brewery "to lose business."

He said the preliminary costs problem would be referred for an opinion to Carl Trauernicht, a lawyer specializing in tax matters.

3 MORE RANSOM BILLS TURN UP IN BANK AT CHICAGO

$20 Notes Discovered in Federal Reserve Bank —31 Have Been Re- covered.

Three additional Greenlease ransom bills have been found at the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago, J. Earl Miles, agent in charge of the St. Louis office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced today.

The $20 bills are in addition to two others reported last night, one at Denver and the other at Chicago. Since the ransom bills began appearing early last month, 31 have been reported by the FBI. All were $20s, although the missing $303,729 portion of the ransom also contained $10 bills.

Twenty-one bills have been discovered in the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago. Other cities in which the ransom notes were found include St. Louis, East St. Louis, Quincy, Ill., Moline, Ill., Jacksonville, Fla.; Salt Lake City, Utah, and Philadelphia.

Two of the bills spotted by FBI agents in a check of currency at the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank were traced to branch banks in Sedalia and Springfield, Mo. It was not disclosed whether the latest bills could be traced.

The parents of Bobby Greenlease paid $500,000 to Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, who kidnapped and killed the Kansas City boy. When Hall and Mrs. Heady were captured in St. Louis Oct. 6, 1953, less than half of the ransom was recovered.

U.S. FINDS NO ARMS ON SHIP ON WAY TO NORTH VIETNAM

COLOMBO, Sept. 14 (AP)—The United States Embassy washed its hands today of the 1618-ton Panamanian freighter Katerina S. The Americans had searched the vessel for three days without finding any Communist arms aboard it. Its cargo was mostly sugar.

United States Ambassador Philip Crowe said Panama had instructed its honorary consul in Colombo, Russell W. Jepson, to take charge of all matters concerning Katerina.

Panama had asked the United States to search the ship and pick up its registry papers after it called at Bourgas, Bulgaria, to load supplies for Haiphong.

MARINE CAPTAIN
JACKPOT ON TV

O., and he will be back there Monday. But he has had a hard time getting his courses ready.
"I would be reading a military textbook and find my attention wandering to cooking."About half the studio audience last night was made up of Marines—and the yell they let out after Dick, with his father's help, "finished describing correctly what the King of England served to the President of France on March 21, 1939, could be heard from the Halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli.Dick's wife, Betsy, in a plum-colored cocktail dress and navy blue hat, and his white-haired mother, in a blue and whiteprint and blue velvet hat, watched from the center of the
father, retired naval Capt. John McCutchen of New York City, did their stuff in the isolation booth or "pressure cooker" as Dick calls it.

Rather an Expert, Too.

Under the rules of the game, Dick was entitled to the help of any expert he cared to choose.
His father was the logical choice not only because, as Dick smilingly put it, "the Navy often supports the Marine Corps," but also because his father is a cookery expert, too.
That explains Dick's interest in cooking.Dick's mother and wife smiled and clapped with the rest of the audience when Dick announced his decision to "go."
But his father blinked away the tears. Once on the stage, however, the father—a fine looking man of 55, an Annapolis graduate (1919) who saw service on submarines in World War II—was as smiling and composed as he was.Dr. Berger Evans of Northwestern University who thought up the questions Dick answered was also in the audience last night. He told me the Buckingham Palace menu was selectedpartly to give the program glamour, and partly to have something authentic about what there would be no doubt.If it had been possible, the principal chef for Buckingham Palace would have been brought in, I learned, as an authority to be consulted in case an umpire were needed on any of the answers. The Palace, however, would not go along with the project.

The Palace Dinner.

McCutchen was asked to describe several courses of the palace dinner—soup, fish, vegetable, sauce, dessert and two wines. The French dishes were:
soup, consommé Cannelle; fish, filet de truit saumone; vegetable, petit pois à la Francaise; sauce, Maltaise, served with asparagus; dessert, corbeille; wines, Château Yquem and Madeira Sercial.I asked Dr. Evans what he thought the hardest part of the question was and he said the last one about the Madeira Serial.
Dick, who consulted his father on this and two other questions, agreed that this was the toughest one. "We were a little in doubt," he said, "whether it was a sweet or dry wine."

Everyone in New York seemed to be talking about Dick yesterday. Before the show it was,

"Do you think he'll go for it?"
After the show I stopped in at a Times Square restaurant and overheard typical conversation. The gist of it was, "That boy's got nerve."Nearly everyone seems fairly familiar with the tax picture in Dick's case. What impresses folks is that in the "never say die" spirit of the Marines he risked losing nearly $18,000 for the sake of gaining only $13,000.

Here's how it works out:

He makes $554 a month, with extras, but only $405 of that is taxable. He has a wife and three children. So, the way tax experts figure it, if he had stuck to $32,000, he would have had $21,445 of that left after taxes. By going on to $64,000, he has $34,436 left. But if he had missed, he would have come away with a car worth about $4500 if he had chosen to sell it. And out of this, he would have had only $3661.50 left.Dick's mother and wife smiled and clapped with the rest of the audience when Dick
announced his decision to "go."
But his father blinked away the tears. Once on the stage, however, the father—a fine looking man of 55, an Annapolis graduate (1919) who saw service on
submarines in World War II—
was as smiling and composed as he was.Their three daughters are Sherrill, 4½; Anne, nearly 3, and Catherine, 1½. Sherrill is known in the family as "Sergeant." Anne as "Corporal," and Catherine is now a "private first class."

Shuns 'Goldfish Bowl.'

To spare his wife and children the ordeal of living in a goldfish bowl, Dick has had them staying with her parents in Peabody Manor, N. Y. The children saw him on a television news broadcast once but have never seen him on the $64,000 show. Sherrill, however, "knows I have been answering questions on television about cooking." When she discovered this, she suddenly "got too big for her breeches" — until her father cracked down.Dick, who stands six feet and weighs 165 pounds when he's in shape, has lost between five and seven pounds since he got into this contest. He blames it on the fact that he's been so busy lately he couldn't sleep and eat regularly or find time to swim or practice the judo he learned in Japan.But it has all turned out somewhat better than that time he took a Boy Scout second-class cooking test at the age of 12. He flunked it. He could not get a fire started with two matches.

Another Wins $16,000.

By the Associated Press.
Another contestant on last night's program—a 71-year-old widowed grandmother—gave the correct answer to the $16,000 question in her baseball category. She is Mrs. Myrtle Power, of Buford, Ga., who is living temporarily at Roslyn Heights on Long Island where she is a housekeeper.Mrs. Power, a baseball fan since 1895, got over the $18,000
hurdle by identifying Babe
Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Foxx, Al Simmons and Joe Cronin as the five sluggers who were struck out in succession by Carl Hubbell during the 1934 All

WIFE NO. 9 GETS DIVORCE, $260,000
FROM MANVILLE

RENO, Nev., Sept. 14 (AP)—The ninth wife of millionaire Tommy Manville obtained a divorce yesterday. Mrs. Manville pleaded extreme mental cruelty, and got a $260,000 settlement. "It's the largest Tommy has given," said Anita Frances Roddy-Eden Manville, 31-year-old dancer who married the asbestos heir in 1952. They separated 12 days later.

Garbed in black, and wearing a spray of nine purple orchids, "from Tommy," Mrs. Manville broke down briefly on the witness stand as she described her brief life with Manville, 61.

"We had many quarrels...it was my husband's drinking...he used vile language...and continually talked of other women and his previous wives," she told District Judge Gordon Rice. She said all this made her ill.

Although the settlement was not open to public inspection, Judge Rice, saying he was concerned whether Mrs. Manville knew what it contained, told her: "You understand the agreement calls for $140,000 immediately."

JUDGE MOORE IS UPHELD IN MO. PAC. CASE

Appeals Court Affirms
His Order Approving Reorganization Proposal.

An order of United States District Judge George H. Moore approving the "Agreed System Plan" of reorganization for the bankrupt Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. was affirmed today by the United States Court of Appeals.

In the event no appeal is taken to the United States Supreme Court, the way would now seem to be cleared by the decision for a confirmation of the plan by Judge Moore, the final step in restoring the road to private operation.

The appeals had been taken by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co., 51 1/4 Per Cent Secured Serial Bondholders Committee and by various stockholders of the New Orleans, Texas and Mexico Railroad, a Missouri Pacific subsidiary. Another appeal had been taken by the so-called Independent Directors of the company.

The N.O.T.&M. stockholders, contending their railroad was not bankrupt, argued the plan was illegal in merging that company into a single system with the Missouri Pacific and other subsidiary lines. They also objected to the representation given them in the new company.

In rejecting these contentions, the Court of Appeals said:

"On full consideration, we conclude that Judge Moore has fairly set forth in his opinion the facts relative to the appellants' contention concerning merger, the applicable law, the proper analysis and has fully supported his conclusion that the report of the (Interstate Commerce) Commission should be approved."

The appeal of the Independent Directors was dismissed with the statement that the appellants had no authority to represent any parties in interest.

Twelve of the 16 classes of security holders have voted approval of the plan.

CUMBERLAND GAP BECOMES 181ST PARK RUN BY U.S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Cumberland Gap national historical park, in the making many years and authorized by law since 1940, today formally becomes the 181st area administered by the National Park Service.

The new national historical park is made up of some 20,100 acres of land at the junction of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia. The states acquired the necessary land at an expenditure of about $1,250,000.

Secretary of the Interior McKay arranged a ceremony this afternoon for the signing of acceptances of the deeds to the lands presented to the Government by the states. He invited officials of the states, members of Congress from the areas involved and representatives of conservation and historical organizations to attend.

TEXAN IS GIVEN 60-YEAR PAKISTAN OIL CONCESSION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Pakistan yesterday signed oil concession agreements with Nelson Bunker Hunt, son of H. L. Hunt, wealthy oil man of Dallas, Tex. The agreements, for 60 years, call for a minimum $42,000,000 program of search and development of oil resources.

Mrs. Caroline L. Hunt, wife of Nelson Hunt, is taking part in the venture, which calls on the Hunts to put up 75 per cent of the costs of exploration, or $31,500,000. Pakistan will invest up to $5,250,000 in each of two 10,000-square-mile areas to be explored in West Pakistan.

The agreements include a depletion allowance clause and other tax provisions which in effect provide that any profits will be shared on a 50-50 basis.

MARINES CAUGHT SIPHONING GASOLINE FOR MOTORCYCLES

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif., Sept. 14 (AP)—Police Chief Victor Stewart's police dog barked and Stewart saw two men siphoning gasoline from his automobile.

Clad only in his pajamas, Stewart pursued the men, caught up and was searching them when a woman motorist stopped and asked Stewart if she could call the police for him. He said yes.

Officers who arrived helped the chief question the prisoners, who proved to be Camp Pendleton Marines who had two motorcycles but insufficient gasoline to get back to camp. They were turned over to the shore patrol.

ONE OF THEIR OWN BOYS

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Officials at the state mental hospital were watching television. The local program was "Sidewalk Superintendents," which is broadcast from the street. "Say," said one of the hospital men, "that looks like one of the patients."

"Yes, it is," another said. "Somebody better go get him. And they did."

PICK-ME-UP for a Fish.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 14 (UP)—Ed Berry, a Red Cross first aid instructor at the Kentucky State Fair here, was strolled yesterday by a request for an aspirin for a catfish. He was told that the catfish at the Conservation Department booth nearby was getting gassy, and the aspirin was needed to freshen up his water.

BROTHERS FLEE THIRD TIME, FOUND AFTER SIX DAYS

Harold Stufflebean Jr., 12 years old, and his 8-year-old brother, John, of 1440 Cass Avenue, who have run away from home three times in about a month, were found by police again yesterday after having been missing six days.

They were in the 3700 block of Wyoming street, wearing only dirty jeans, when Sgt. George Brookshire and Patrolman Murray Beech of the Magnolia Avenue district found them.

On the other occasions, once in St. Louis and once near Collinsville, they were reluctant to identify themselves, but yesterday they were more cooperative. They said they had been begging food and sleeping in vacant sheds, alleys and parked automobiles.

Harold was held for juvenile authorities and John was returned home.

CZECH BARTENDERS FULFILL QUOTAS—SELL TO DRUNKS

VIENNA (AP)—A Prague newspaper complains that bartenders in Communist Czechoslovakia are so eager to "fulfill their quotas" that they are selling liquor to drunks.

A recent edition of Mladá Fronta also complained about the declining morals of Czech youths. It said drunken youngsters in southern Bohemia have been forcing girls to dance with them by threatening "vulgar scandals."

that 100,000 Germans are being detained.

"We believe the Soviets will keep this promise, and we hope these other detained Germans also will be able to return to their homeland," Adenauer said.

Expects Immediate Start.

The West German leader said he expected the release of the so-called war criminals" to start almost immediately after his delegation returned to Bonn.

Some, he said, will be arrested while others will be turned over to the West German Government to be dealt with according to its laws. A German press spokesman added that those prisoners with homes in West Germany would be handed over to the Bonn government, while natives of East Germany would be released to the Communist regime there.

The agreement at the end of the conference came as a considerable surprise since the earlier sessions of the talks had shown the two delegations to be far apart on the major issues.

Adenauer himself told his news conference: "Even I thought yesterday afternoon that this conference would fail to reach agreement. But then came a sudden turn which I believe will contribute to peace in Europe and in the world." The "sudden turn," apparently was the Soviet decision to free the prisoners.

The agreement was worked out in a final seven and one-half hour session, the fourth plenary meeting of the negotiations for which the Russian government invited Adenauer to Moscow.

The communique said the pact would become effective when ratified by the Bonn Cabinet and the Bundestag (lower house) of the West German Parliament, as well as by the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet.

FULL-SCALE SENDOFF.

Bulgarian, other Soviet leaders, many members of the diplomatic corps and troops of the Moscow garrison were at the airport to give Adenauer a full-scale sendoff when he left for Bonn. Before stepping into the plane, Adenauer told the Soviet Premier: "I hope we shall see each other again and that we shall see each other in Bonn."

Speaking into a microphone as Bulgarian and other Russian leaders stood by, the West German leader declared:

"We are leaving for our country with the conviction that we've worked well together in Moscow for peace throughout the world. I am convinced our work will bear good fruit for both our peoples."

Bulgarian, in a brief farewell, replied:

"I agree with you in the hope we should continue our work with great success. I wish you a good flight, good health and successful work."

The agreement ends the estrangement between Bonn and Moscow that has existed since World War II.

Announcing that the two nations had agreed to establish embassies in each other's capitals, the communique said this "will serve the cause of peace in Europe."

Announcement of the agreement was made at separate German and Soviet news conferences.

Leomid Ilyichev, Soviet Foreign Ministry press chief, told newsmen "the two parties were brought by the fact that the establishment of normal relations would contribute toward a solution of the outstanding problems of all Germany and the general common problem—the establishment of a unified, democratic, German state."

The Soviet spokesman said the Adenauer-Bulgarian talks "ended in success" and had laid the cornerstone for "good relations between the two peoples."

Bulgarian Charge.
(The Moscow radio, in a broadcast heard in London, quoted Bulgari as charging during the final session of the talks that more than 100,000 Soviet citizens are being detained in West Germany.

(Apparently referring to displaced persons of Russian and Baltic origin whose return Moscow demanded recently, Bulgari declared: "The majority of these unfortunate people, being torn from their homeland and families, have no permanent work, domicile, means of existence and suffer severe privations and hardships."

(Bulgari's remarks apparently were not reported either by Soviet newspapers or carried on domestic Moscow radio broadcasts.

THE MOSCOW BROADCAST ALSO REPORTED THAT SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTER V. M. MOLOTOV COMPLAINED ABOUT THE LAUNCHING OF BIG LEAFLET-CARRYING BALLOONS BY AMERICAN ORGANIZATIONS IN WESTERN GERMANY.

He said they were a menace to air navigation and hostile to the Soviet Union and neighboring countries.

Some reports say that at one point Adenauer was prepared to break off the talks, refuse diplomatic relations and go home because the Russians were unwilling to yield on the prisoner problem. It thus appears that a Russian concession on the price Adenauer wanted for opening diplomatic relations made the final agreement possible.

PRaised by Pravda.

Pravda organs had high praise for the conference outcome. A Pravda editorial said the agreement showed what could be done "when urgent international problems are discussed and solved with the interests of both sides being taken into account."

Success of the talks, the Communist party organ continued, is a good augury which bears witness to the fact that the coming Geneva foreign ministers' conference can be crowned with success if all participants can display good will towards co-operation."

Pravda also reported a frequent slap at the West, declaring, "These talks have again convincingly shown that the notorious 'from a position of strength' policy is completely bankrupt and promises nothing but failure to those who still persist in their attempts to pursue it."

representative at a U.N. subcommittee's disarmament talks. Snyder also announced that the President will leave here Monday for about five days of trout fishing at a Rocky Mountain ranch at Fraser, Colo., about 70 miles northwest of Denver.

The President spent five days at the same ranch last month. He will be accompanied again by his host, Aksel Nielsen, Denver investment banker.

BUSINESS MEN Guests.

Beginning tomorrow, the President himself will be host for the weekend to a group of eastern business men arriving for golf and bridge.

The group will include Francis Ouimet, who won the national open golf championship in 1913, and Charles R. Yates, former British amateur champion who now is in the textile sales business in Atlanta, Ga.

Others in the group are: Albert Bradley of New York, a General Motors executive; Gen. Lucius D. Clay, of New York, board chairman of the Continental Can Co.; John O. Chiles, Atlanta real estate man; Leonard K. Firestone, president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. of California; T. Richard Garlington, Atlanta real estate man; Jay Gould, executive vice president of Frankfort Distillers, New York; Amory Houghtaling, board chairman of the Corning Glass Works, Corning, N.Y.; W. Alton Jones, board chairman of the Cities Service Co., New York; Lewis B. Maytag, Colorado Springs, retired washing machine manufacturer; Clifford Roberts, New York investment banker and board chairman of the Augusta (Ga.) National Golf Club; Ellis D. Slater, New York, president of Frankfort Distillers, and Frank A. Willard, New York investment banker.

Authorities here said establishment of diplomatic relations would not prejudice forthcoming negotiations on German unification even though the Soviet Union may try to use it in that manner.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, in co-operation with British and French foreign ministers, plans to make demands for German unification the first business of the West when the Big Four foreign ministers meet at Geneva on Oct. 27.

Concentrated on Prisoners.

The position Adenauer took on unification at the outset of the Moscow talks was that it was properly a problem for an October foreign ministers' meeting. He then concentrated, as Washington officials understand his moves, on obtaining a Soviet promise to release thousands of German men held in Russia 10 years after the end of World War II.

The Russians, while insisting on establishment of diplomatic relations first, argued that they could not negotiate the prisoner release problem without the presence of representatives of the East German Communist regime.

Some reports say that at one point Adenauer was prepared to break off the talks, refuse diplomatic relations and go home because the Russians were unwilling to yield on the prisoner problem. It thus appears that a Russian concession on the price Adenauer wanted for opening diplomatic relations made the final agreement possible.

SCHOOLS MAY HIRE LEGISLATIVE REPRESENTATIVE

Board to Study Plan to Keep Posted on Jefferson City Actions Which Affect It.

A study to determine the advisability of having a paid representative of the Board of Education in Jefferson City during sessions of the Legislature was authorized last night by the board.

As proposed by board member James F. Morrell, the representative's duties would be to keep the board closely informed on all bills affecting it.

Morrell, chairman of the board's legislative committee, said need for such a position was indicated by the fact the board was not advised in the last General Assembly of provisions in a bill eliminating state aid for teaching children confined to their homes because of physical disability.

However, before making a definite recommendation, Morrell said he wanted his committee to study the matter. He pointed out that the city keeps employees in Jefferson City while the Legislature meets.

Won't Act as Lobbyist.

He told the Post-Dispatch today that he thought the representative's duties should be confined to keeping track of measures affecting the board and reporting to the board. Morrell said he did not think the person should act as a lobbyist.

"I believe it is the responsibility of board members to go to Jefferson City and work for or against passage of bills, if necessary," he said. "But board members cannot be there every day to check what goes on day-by-day."

In other action last night, the board approved a rule change deleting a detailed list of questions for applicants for the board's four top administrative posts—superintendent of instruction, commissioner of school buildings, secretary-treasurer and auditor.

The questions were placed in the rules last October and covered qualifications, experience and financial affairs, including income from outside sources. The administrative officers are hired for four-year terms.

Two Reverse Position.

Board members Daniel L. Schlafly and Louis H. Antoine, who had voted last year to include the questions, supported last night's action to take them out. Both said they did not feel this was inconsistent with their previous stand, explaining that as board members they could seek from applicants whatever information they felt was necessary.

On motion by board member H. Lee Bruns, a committee was appointed to study the advisability of moving the board offices from 911 Locust street to a more central location. Bruns said that the possibility had long been discussed and action should be taken one way or the other.

The board approved a request of the St. Louis district of the Missouri Teachers' Association to permit pupils to carry home material explaining the public school foundation program to be voted on in a statewide election Oct. 4.

IDEA FACTORY HAMMERS PRODUCTS OUT OF THOUGHTS

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The woman defendant in municipal court raised her left hand when City Clerk Duffy Horan started to give her the oath.

"Raise your right hand," said Horan.

"But this is my right hand," she replied. "I'm left-handed. It's the hand I use all the time."

"But it's not the hand you swear by," Horan insisted.

JACKIE ROBINSON HAILS NEGRO GAINS

Dodger Star Says Baseball Helped Clear Way for School Integration.

Acceptance of Negroes in major league baseball has helped in desegregation of public schools because it proved to lawmakers that people can get along together regardless of race, creed or religion,

Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers, said here today. Robinson, who spoke at a student assembly at Wydown School in Clayton, said that since Negro players are members of practically every major league team, Negroes now feel that if they have ability they can strive for professions and opportunities which were denied before because of race.

He said the shooting and killing of a 14-year-old Negro boy in Mississippi was unfortunate, but the incident hurts other Americans more than Negroes.

"The United States has been set up as an example to people all over the world," Robinson said. "When foreign visitors hear of this incident they wonder how can America lead the world if it cannot lead its own people."

Robinson told his audience at the school for ninth grade students that human relations in baseball have improved greatly since he became the first Negro in the major leagues 10 years ago. He said as Americans they should recognize people by what they can do for better understanding.

U.S. GOING SLOW ON SHIPMENT OF GOODS TO RUSSIA

Khrushchev Statements
On Increased Trade
Believed Tinged With Propaganda.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Despite Russian expressions of interest, United States officials are keeping a cautious hand on the door to stepped up East-West trade.

There is no rush, a check in the State, Commerce and Agriculture Departments showed today, for quantities of cattle, tractors and other peaceful goods for shipment to Moscow or the Soviet satellites.

Nikita Khrushchev, Russian Communist party boss, said during a conversation with a group of United States Senators in Moscow Monday that Russia is interested in importing United States machinery and farm products. He implied Russia is willing to sell manganese and other strategic materials in exchange.

The same wish for imports had been expressed frequently by the Soviet farm delegation which flew home from New York City about the same time, after an extensive tour of American and Canadian farm areas. They expressed interest in Santa Gertrudis cattle, tractors and harvesters, sorghums and corn seed.

Deputy Stays Behind.

Yuri F. Golubach, deputy minister of state farms in Russia, stayed behind. His task is to complete arrangements for buying in Texas 60 head of Santa Gertrudis cattle, a hardy beef strain.

United States officials are inclined to treat Khrushchev's statements about increasing trade as tinged with political propaganda. If the Russians mean business, their next step would be to work through their commercial staff at the Washington embassy, through their Amtorg trading mission in New York City or through a special trade mission.

United States business men would in turn go to Russia to look at potential imports. Aside from manganese, platinum and some other raw materials, however, Russia has little to attract the American business eye.

No major legal obstacles were in the way of filling whatever orders for peaceful goods the Russians might place. But officials said each order will be studied and passed on in the light of its own merit.

Licenses Needed.

By law, the Commerce Department must issue a license for all exports to Russia and its European satellites. No trade is permitted to Red China and North Korea.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks recently described the policy as "generally to approve the export of non-strategic goods to the U.S.S.R. and its European satellites, except where a particular transaction is viewed as having an adverse net impact upon the security interests on the free world."

The Department of Agriculture has the same general rule. Gwynn Garnett, administrator of the department's foreign agricultural service, said this month that export licenses for farm goods "will be granted as a matter of policy whenever the United States supplies are abundant and the supplies are for normal peaceful uses."

RUSSIA REPORTED TRYING TO AVERT VIET NAM CRISIS

Believed to Have Invited Britain to Discuss Deadlock Between North, South.

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Russia appears to be making a genuine effort to prevent another crisis in Indochina, Western diplomats said today.

The Russians quietly have invited the British to talk over the deadlock between the Communists North and the pro-Western South Viet Namese governments, informants reported.

The troubles in Viet Nam grew out of the 1954 Geneva agreement which ended the Indochinese war. The settlement provided for free elections by next July to get the north and south united under a single government.

The South Viet Namese have refused to follow the plan, arguing that the Communist northerners would not allow genuinely free voting.

South Viet Nam has refused even to discuss conditions under which elections might be held. The British and French view is that this puts the southerners in the wrong.

Western diplomats in London said the Russians lately have avoided making political capital out of the situation and, at the same time, have asked the British to make suggestions about what to do next.

The British Foreign Office would neither confirm nor deny exchanges with Russia on the question of Viet Nam's political future.

A spokesman did say, however, that the British Government is in touch with the parties to the Indochinese armistice agreement, meaning not only the signatory countries but also the Indian, Canadian and Polish governments which form the International Control Commission supervising the truce.

Though the United States did not sign the 1954 Geneva agreement, the British are keeping the Americans fully informed about the British-Soviet exchanges, which so far have produced no precise proposals for any sort of concerted new action.

Western diplomats here took careful note when a Communist news correspondent, Wilfred Burchett, reported in the London Daily Worker that the Viet Namese Reds have drafted a new plan which might forestall an early crisis.

Burchett said that under this plan next year's voting would be for entirely separate parliaments for the two parts of the country. Step by step, however, the two would be united.

The Communist reporter said the plan was worked out at a conference of Northern Viet Namese in Hanoi, with unofficial southern delegates present. Together they formed what they called a Viet Nam Fatherland Front.

The Indian government, meantime, has complained to Britain that South Viet Nam's failure to join in the election talks is making the armistice agreement difficult to carry out and supervise. India presides over the Indian-Canadian-Polish truce control commission and addressed its complaint to Britain as one of the co-chairmen of parties to the Geneva settlement.

GOING BAREFOOT SAID TO MAKE FEET LARGER

HONOLULU (UPI)—Chiropractors, shoe wholesalers and retailers agree that children in Hawaii have larger feet than those on the mainland because they often go around barefooted.

A shoe store manager said island youngsters' feet average about a size and a half larger than normal, especially in width. He said many take widths up to triple-F, and a few need size quadruple-E. Some can't even be fitted with children's shoes and must wear adult sizes.

Dr. L. N. Beers, a Honolulu chiropractor, disagrees with those who maintain it's healthy to go barefooted. It's all right to go without shoes on soft sand or grass, he said, but a hard surface breaks down the foot and makes it spread and splay until it "looks like a suitcase."

ISRAELIS ASSAIL
GULF BLOCKADE
BY EGYPTIANS

JERUSALEM, Israel, Sept. 14 (AP)—Israel last night denounced the Egyptian blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba and said it will keep Israeli sea lanes open "by whatever method it will see fit."

A government memorandum said Israel is determined to exercise "rights of free passage" through the strategic waterway. It called the Egyptian blockade a violation of international law governing freedom of the seas.

An Egyptian War Ministry decree Saturday ordered all ships entering the gulf to get special permission beforehand from Egyptian authorities. The decree said no Israeli ships or ships carrying war material to Israel would be allowed through.

The Gulf of Aqaba gives Israel a southern sea approach from the Red sea. The narrow channel is flanked by Egypt on the west and Saudi Arabia on the east.

Israel said any acquiescence to Egypt's new regulations on the Gulf of Aqaba "will aggravate the danger of incidents prejudicial to peace and security in the area."

U.N. Farm Group Calls Surpluses Biggest Peril to Price Stability

More Efficient Production, Marketing Urged—Distribution Among Nations Still Very Uneven.

ROME, Sept. 14 (UP)—Huge surpluses of some agricultural products present the greatest threat to the stability of international prices in the years ahead, the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization said today.

More efficient production and marketing, improved price support methods and international consultations on the disposal of surplus stocks are needed to prevent any collapse of prices, the FAO said.

These were the main points in a 236-page report covering the first 10 years of FAO operations.

The report, released today, showed what man has done since the end of World War II to put more food on his table, and what problems he still faces to overcome shortages and surpluses.

Sweeping Changes.

World agriculture has experienced more sweeping changes in the last 10 years than in any previous decade in history, the FAO said. What is needed now is maximum horse sense on the part of everyone—especially governments—to help world agriculture adjust itself to the new conditions, the agency added.

While global agricultural production in 1954 was about 30 per cent higher than in 1948-47, distribution among the nations was still very uneven, the report said.

Prices fluctuated, farmers' income were low, and consumption was less than it could be. Price—endangering surpluses prevailed in some areas, with utter poverty elsewhere.

Surveying FAO operations, Director General Philip V. Cardon said they have seen a dramatic transformation from the devastation when agricultural surpluses in some countries are once more causing anxiety, even though millions of the world's people still remain inadequately fed, clothed and housed.

"The same years have seen more rapid and widespread advances in the technical methods of agriculture, forestry and fisheries than in any previous decade," Cardon said.

Main Developments.

The report noted the following main developments since 1945:

1. The fast growth of population due to high birth rates and improved medical services has led to an increase in demand for food, particularly in Latin America.

2. Full employment and welfare policies have increased the per capita demand for agricultural products, especially of the more expensive types.

3. The development and industrialization of under-developed regions, and the emergence of new groupings such as the Communist bloc, have produced some change in the pattern of agricultural production and world trade.

4. Increased dependence of food-importing countries on American supplies may have accounted for as much as one-third of the dollar gap. Dollar payments difficulties have, in turn, resulted in a trend towards greater European self-sufficiency, leaving large unsold surpluses in the United States.

5. Land reform and extension service have produced striking results. Public financing of farm expansion has been made necessary by the inadequacy of normal sources of capital.

100-Pound Milk Bottle.

LEWISTON, Me. (UP)—Thieves or pranksters who swiped a king-sized milk bottle from the front of a dairy here abandoned it a few miles away. They apparently found the display bottle too cumbersome to lug. It stands seven feet high and weighs 100 pounds.

U.S. WILL MOVE TO HALT DROP IN FARM PRICES

Benson Says 'Specific' Plan Will Be Given to Congress by Administration.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said today the Administration will have something "very specific" to offer to Congress to bolster declining farm prices and incomes.

He said he could not say yet what will be proposed. He said, however, it would be "something of an addition" to the present program rather than a "change in direction."

"Something needs to be done to ease the farm price squeeze," he said. "Anyone who is sincerely interested in agriculture cannot be satisfied with present conditions. Certainly I am not."

Benson talked with reporters as he stepped from a plane returning him from a two weeks tour of Europe seeking to improve international farm trade relations.

The Secretary said the problem of declining farm prices and incomes and possible remedies will be reviewed by the department's agricultural advisory commission—an 18-member group of farm leaders—at a meeting in Washington Sept. 22-23.

Number of Proposals.

He said consideration will be given to a number of proposals, including one that the Government either rent surplus land and take it out of cultivation or pay farmers incentives to do the same thing. He said a land rental plan posed "real difficulties in administration."

Benson said the Administration program will continue to place emphasis on flexible price supports. He indicated that whatever may be proposed would be designed to channel supplemental income to farmers' pockets during a period of adjusting production to present day needs.

Benson said the Government may be able to accomplish such a goal through the present agricultural conservation payments program under which subsidies are paid farmers who comply with government approved soil conservation and soil building practices.

The Secretary said that he returned from his tour "greatly encouraged" about the possibility of trade in agricultural commodities.

Farm Income Down.

The department reported yesterday net farm income declined slightly more than 4 per cent in the first half of this year. A further decline in the year's third quarter was forecast.

Net income—the amount left from agricultural returns after paying production cost—was said to have run at the annual rate of $11,100,000,000 in the first half of the year, compared with $11,600,000,000 last year and $12,900,000,000 in 1953.

The loss in income was attributed chiefly to a drop in farm prices, averaging about 5 per cent.

The department's income report was issued at a time when many Democratic leaders were criticizing the administration's farm policies, claiming that they are inadequate to assure farmers prosperous conditions.

Second Quarter Below First.

The report said net farm income dropped to an annual rate of $10,800,000,000 in the second quarter of this year from a rate of $11,500,000,000 in the first quarter.

Judging from preliminary data for July and August only, realized net income will probably decline somewhat further in the third quarter, the department said, adding:

"Prices paid by farmers for production items declined slightly in July and August, so that the annual rate of production expenses may drop off a little from the second quarter to the third quarter."

"On the other hand, prices of all farm products in July and August averaged 4 per cent lower than in the April-June quarter, and gross income on a seasonally adjusted basis is likely to be down considerably more than expenses in the third quarter."

Air Force Considers Softening Part of P.O.W. Survival Course Tough Interrogation Phase May Be Conducted With Instructors as Demonstrators as Airmen Watch.

By ELTON C. FAY
STEAD AIR FORCE BASE, Sept. 14 (AP)—Air Force headquarters in Washington is "very diligently working on" a new curriculum to be used in the school at Stead which is trying to teach downed flyers how to escape an enemy or foil brutal inquisitors if captured.

Col. Burton E. McKenzie, commander of this school on war's harsh realities, told reporters of the plan. He is "seriously considering" taking an interim step to modify one phase of the training program which has come in for public attention.

The colonel, talking yesterday to reporters invited by the Air Force to visit the school, said he might decide to conduct the tough "interrogation" phase of the course with only his professional instructors serving as "the prisoners" under grilling.

About 5 per cent of the 29,000 students who have taken the course, and who volunteer, now are subjected to the browbeating question technique akin to what they should expect if they fall into Communist hands in a future war. McKenzie said if he decides on the change, not even volunteers will be accepted for the interrogation, all of which would be by demonstration only.

Called Life Insurance.

It is the interrogation phase of the course which has stirred public attention, with questions about whether realism is too tough.

The Air Force's position is that its bombers and fighter pilots, whose missions may take them anywhere on the globe, should have this training in what to do, and not to do, if misfortune lands them deep in a hostile land. McKenzie says this is "life insurance."

What the Air Force is trying to teach its flyers, in the five years it has conducted the school, is how to lead a hard life for a little while so they may lead a long one.

For those who saw some of the demonstrations yesterday and talked with men learning how to survive in uninhabited lands, escape capture in populous one or outsmart inquisitors there was no doubt the lessons are tough. But, as the Air Force officials said, they are necessary.

There was a grim demonstration of the interrogation methods, a lesson in how soul-crush-

EARLY NEWSPAPER SHOP RESTORATION FOR WILLIAMSBURG

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va.—The office of one of the earliest and most influential newspapers in colonial America will be reconstructed at Williamsburg, it was announced recently.

Colonial Williamsburg, the organization that has rebuilt Virginia's colonial capital from funds donated by John D. Rockefeller Jr., has acquired the original property of the Virginia Gazette under a 100-year lease.

The newspaper office will be reconstructed on its original foundations, duplicating the 1730 shop of William Parks, founder of the newspaper.

The Gazette published George Washington's first official report, an account of young Washington's expedition to the Ohio valley. It also published the Virginia Resolution for American Independence, the Virginia Declaration of Rights—forerunner of the Federal Bill of Rights, Patrick Henry's denunciation of the Stamp Act and the news of the Battle of Lexington.

The office will be exhibited, when completed, as a working Eighteenth Century newspaper office.

NEBRASKANS OUGHT TO GET PLENTY OF SERVICE

LINCOLN, Nebr. (UP)—Nebraska has an estimated 13,000 state employees, in addition to 19,000 on the federal and 39,000 on local public payrolls.

The figures came from Dr. Everett E. Peterson, extension economist at the University of Nebraska.

Nebraska has 139 federal and 378 state and local government employees for each 10,000 population, as compared with the national figures of 135 and 301, respectively, Peterson said.

DRINKS FOR ALL NOT FREE, BUT FREE-FOR-ALL IS

MANITOWOC, Wis., Sept. 14 (UP)—Charles Kirwan, 19 years old, stepped up to the bar and announced, "When I drink . . . everybody drinks."

Sheriff Lester Nichols said everyone in the house had one. Then the bartender tried to collect from Kirwan.

"When I pay . . . everybody pays," Kirwan said.

A fight followed. A woman was insulted. Sheriff's deputies were called. Kirwan and a man were arrested. Municipal Judge Harold W. Mueller gave them 10-day jail sentences Monday.

"I don't know if the bill ever got paid or not," the sheriff said.

'DUST PNEUMONIA' IS TAKING INCREASING TOLL OF CATTLE

CHICAGO (UPI)—A disease affecting the upper respiratory tract of cattle, sometimes called "red nose" or "dust pneumonia," is reported to be on the increase.

The American Veterinary Medical Association said the disease has been increasing steadily since it first was recognized in Colorado in 1950.

Its correct name is necrotic rhinotracheitis, or more briefly, necrotic rhinitis.

Symptoms include high fever and frequently deep inflammation of the nostrils or nose pad.

Veterinarians believe it is caused by a virus, the AVMA said.

Control measures include prompt care by a veterinarian and separation of infected animals from healthy ones.

The AVMA said no specific therapy has been found.

ASSAILS CHOICE OF LEGION FOR SENATE HEARING

American Veterans Committee Critical Of Hennings' Civil Rights Group.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The American Veterans Committee has denounced as "a travesty" Senate subcommittee's choice of the American Legion to speak for veterans on constitutional rights.

"From its inception as a foe of organized labor, the American Legion has had a consistent record of opposition to the principles embodied in the Bill of Rights," A.V.C. told the Senate's civil rights subcommittee yesterday.

The Senate Group, headed by Senator Hennings (Dem., Miss.), plans a search for any threats to civil liberties. As a starter it has called on 11 citizens' representatives to present a "petition for the redress of grievances" on Constitution day, next Saturday.

Among spokesmen for lawyers, women, churchmen, business, unions and other groups the subcommittee named Donald R. Wilson to represent veterans. Wilson is a past national commander of the American Legion.

AVC, a self-described "liberal" organization headed by cartoonist Bill Mauldin, said in its protest that the Legion has practiced "intimidation . . . in the name of a false patriotism" and has a long record of attacks on free speech.

A Legion spokesman declined comment beyond saying he hopes AVC will "pay some attention to what is said by Mr. Wilson." The Legion representative said Wilson, a Clarksburg (W. Va.) lawyer, "happens to be a student of the Constitution and Bill of Rights."

Lon Hocker of St. Louis, the subcommittee's hearing counsel, said selection of a Legion representative fits in with the group's purpose of naming a spokesman from the numerically largest organization of each citizens' category. The idea was not, Hocker added, to find one with a particular point of view.

The Legion claims some 2,780,000 members. AVC claims about 30,000, mostly World War II and Korea veterans.

Flashes of Life

Lucky.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—For a woman who had been hit by a train, Miss Helen Suss got off easy. Her automobile and the Santa Fe streamliner El Captain reached a crossing at the same time and the train won, naturally.

Miss Suss suffered a sprained ankle and a skinned nose. The eastbound train was a half mile east of the Pasadena station and was traveling only 18 miles an hour at the time of the crash.

Traffic Hazard.

CLEBURNE, Tex. (AP)—A routine session of the city council was started to attention by new homeowner W. T. Keenem. Keenem told the council he had just built his new house in the middle of a street. Somebody moved the stakes, Keenem said, after his homesite was staked off in a new city addition.

Mayor Walter Holliday said the problem was new but that undoubtedly the house would have to go.

Poor Selection.

PALATKA, Fla. (AP)—After demonstrating his driving ability with examiner Earl Gore as a passenger, James R. Clark pulled into a parking lot. That is where his test for a driver's license turned sour. He hit an automobile. It belonged to Gore.

"Clark didn't pass the test," State Trooper Q. A. Fillingim reported.

BUTLER SAYS U.S. 'BACKPEDALS' ON 'TRADE NOT AID'

Makes Charge as Britons Simmer Over Rejection of Low Bid on Dam Job.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Sept. 14 (UPI)—British Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler told the International Monetary Fund conference today that the United States was showing signs of "backpedaling" against its trade-not-aid policy of helping foreign nations.

"In recent weeks, there have been a number of signs of packpedaling," Butler said. Further sliding backwards can lead only to agonizing reappraisals."

At the same time, Butler said Britain intends to retain its currency controls and to keep the pound sterling pegged at $2.80 to the United States dollar.

He said that "serious problems" may arise unless America can policy develops in the direction of expanded imports.

Butler made his statement while his country still was reacting angrily to American rejection of a British low bid on generating equipment for a Pacific Northwest hydro-electric project.

Britain formally protested against the decision to award the contract to an American firm which submitted a higher bid. It also protested against the increase of United States tariffs on foreign-built bicycles.

"We acknowledge the initiatives of the President of the United States to promote liberal trade policies," Butler said. "Nevertheless, progress in United States good-creditor policies has been slow . . .

"Unless, therefore, developments in United States policies facilitate an expansion of trade, opportunities for advances in the policies of the non-dollar world may not arise and even the maintenance and consideration of existing policies could present serious problems."

U.S. TO CONTINUE TEST IN CARRYING 3-CT. MAIL BY AIR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Post Office Department proposed yesterday to extend an experiment in carrying 3-cent letters and some other first-class mail by air.

Solicitor Abe McGregor Goff asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to continue the present rates paid to airines for this mail. The rates are scheduled to expire Sept. 30. Goff asked that they be continued until final rates have been determined.

The rates involved are 18.66 cents a ton mile for service between the New York-Newark area and Chicago, and between New York-Newark and the Florida cities of Jacksonville, Tampa and Miami.

Also 20.04 cents a ton mile between Washington and Chicago, Chicago and Florida and Washington and Florida.

The airlines sharing in the experimental services are American, Capital, Delta, Eastern, National, TWA, United, Slick, Flying Tiger and Riddle Airlines of Miami.

COUNTY GROUPS TO SEEK FINGERPRINTING EQUIPMENT

A three-man committee of the St. Louis County Law Enforcement Officials' Association will meet with the police liaison committee of the County Council to urge appropriation of funds to purchase fingerprinting and photographic equipment for the office of Sheriff Arthur C. Mosley.

The committee, composed of Police Chiefs John Oberitz of Jennings, Fred Lain of Brentwood and James Webber of Berkeley City, was named by Fred J. Huncke, association president, at a meeting yesterday at Clayton. The group was directed to explain the need for the equipment for maintaining records of prisoners lodged in the jail and urge passage of a pending bill to provide $6800 for purchase of the equipment.

For the present, municipal departments without such equipment will continue taking suspects to County Police headquarters for photographing and fingerprinting before committing them to the jail, which is in Mosley's charge.

The national fraternity headquarters suspended the chapter's charter last July. It said the chapter violated "the customs and traditions of the fraternity in maintaining a class of local or social members." The national headquarters did not refer to admission of a Jew.

Social members admitted by the fraternity were Robert Silberfarb, the Bronx, N.Y., and Edward A. Eld, Pittsburgh.

Michael Garrett of Youngstown, chapter president, said neither Silberfarb nor Eld were initiated as Delta Tau Delta members—merely given social membership. Garrett said Silberfarb could not be initiated "because he is Jewish."

Drivers Look Skyward and See 2 New Giraffes on Way to Zoo

Animals From East Africa Cost $7000—
2 Zebras Valued at $3000 Also Arrive.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Two East African giraffes, 9 feet 6 inches tall, arrived in St. Louis by train this morning and soon were looking down upon a lot of people craning necks.

Early-to-work motorists and bus riders got less than a head-and shoulders view, but at least two feet of the giraffes' necks stuck out from the tops of their heads as the animals were taken to the zoo from the Rail-way Express yards at Sixteenth street and Clark avenue by truck.

Less spectacular were two zebras, also traveling one to a crate.

Zoo Director George P. Viereck turned out to meet the animals and escorted them to their new quarters. He was concerned, reasonably enough, about their safe transit, for the four newcomers cost $10,000—the giraffes $7000 and the zebras $3000.

The animals came from Tanzania, by way of Hamburg, Germany. For the last two months they have been in quarantine in New Jersey.

In the care of two keepers they made the last leg of the trip in a freight train without incident, well behaved all the way. "I'd rather travel with animals than children," one of the keepers said.

Viereck said the animals would be on display soon. The giraffes, male and female,

ARMED MAN ROBS SOLDIER

Parvin Young of Evanston, Ind., a soldier on furlough from Camp Carson, Colo., was robbed of $4 and $80 in traveler's checks early today by a man who hid in the back seat of his automobile while Young was in a restaurant in the 3000 block of Pine street, he told police. Young said the robber, a Negro, held a knife at his back. Young struggled with him and suffered a scalp wound. He was treated at City Hospital.

COMMUNIST-RUN SCHOOLS SAID TO GET G.I. TUITION

McClellan Promises Inquiry — Wonders Whether Recruiting Was Attempted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Chairman McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, said yesterday the Senate investigations subcommittee will explore reports that the Government has paid the tuition of hundreds of Korean war veterans enrolled in schools run by Communists.

Whether any attempt was made at the schools to indoctrinate the veterans or to recruit them into Communism is not yet clear, McClellan told a press conference.

He said the situation apparently results from a "loophole" in a law Congress enacted in 1952 providing educational and other benefits for Korean war veterans.

McClellan said the matter will be a subject for public hearings by his subcommittee. He said a preliminary staff inquiry indicates that there are "some schools" run or staffed by persons "having Communist connections" at which some Korean veterans enrolled.

He described them as mostly "obscure private schools" in eastern states. In reply to a question, McClellan said "I wouldn't say that it would be too inaccurate" to say that one of them has collected about $1,000,000 of tuition. He declined to identify it.

McClellan said the statute allows the Veterans Administration to refuse tuition payments on the basis of possible Communist influence only if the school had been named on the Attorney General's list of subversive organizations. He said "the Veterans Administration may be wholly innocent" and that he was not making any charges of "bureaucratic inefficiency," but felt rather that the law was at fault.

He said that so far as he knows none of the suspected school officials has been named in past congressional inquiries as having Communist connections.

There was no comment from the Veterans Administration.

COL. JOHN L. PERSONS NEW RIVER COMMISSION MEMBER

DENVER, Sept. 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday named Col. John L. Persons of the Army Corps of Engineers to be a member of the Mississippi river commission. Persons, division engineer at Cincinnati, succeeds Maj. Gen. Charles G. Holle.

The President gave Persons a recess appointment. The nomination will be sent to the Senate when Congress reconvenes.

CHURCH REACTION ON NEW BISHOPS IN SOVIET AREA

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 14 (AP)—Consecration of two new bishops of the Roman Catholic Church in Soviet Lithuania, announced by the Moscow radio yesterday, has aroused keen interest here.

Although the Vatican declined comment, a well informed source had this to say:

"It is clear that, unlike other instances, when the Vatican had to disavow announcements of clerical action behind the Iron Curtain, this case is different. Church circles already had been informed of the consecration.

"Evidently it is a legitimate consecration. The importance of this should not be overlooked, after the difficulties of all kinds created in the past by Communist governments for the investiture of bishops named by the Holy See."

The Moscow radio reported that at Panevezis cathedral in Vilnius (Wilno), Sunday, in the presence of some 15,000 persons, Piatris Majalis, a canon, and Julianas Stepanavicius, a master of theology, were consecrated by Bishop Kazimeras Paltakoras, 80-year-old prelate of the Panavėzis diocese.

The Moscow radio said the cathedral was jammed, and more than 30 prelates, canons and priests were among those attending.

Lithuania is still believed to be 85 per cent Roman Catholic. The Baltic republic was occupied by Soviet Russia and incorporated into the U.S.S.R. in 1940.

SPRINGFIELD FILES TO ENTER WATER RATE INCREASE CASE

JEFFERSON CITY (UPI)—The City of Springfield sought Tuesday to intervene in the case involving a proposed rate increase of $325,634 a year for the Springfield City Water Company.

A petition filed with the State Public Service Commission by Irvin W. Schwab, special attorney for the city, particularly asked for a careful check for accuracy of the utility's financial records and exhibits.

Hearings on the proposed rate increase were set to open Sept. 22.

The Moscow radio reported that at Panevezis cathedral in Vilnius (Wilno), Sunday, in the presence of some 15,000 persons, Piatris Majalis, a canon, and Julianas Stepanavicius, a master of theology, were consecrated by Bishop Kazimeras Paltakoras, 80-year-old prelate of the Panavėzis diocese.

RITA WILL TAKE CHILD TO FRANCE TO SEE AY KHAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (UP)—Rita Hayworth made arrangements today to take her five-year-old daughter Yasmin to France to visit her former husband, Aly Khan.

The actress learned last night that her attorney, Bartley Crum, had reached an agreement in Reno, Nev., with Aly's attorneys to withdraw a writ ordering her to present the child for a six-week visitation with her father.

Crum said when the attorneys go before District Judge A. J. Mestetti to withdraw their writ, the jurist will issue an order authorizing Rita to turn the child over to her former husband "whenever she sees fit."

Crum said the new agreement provided that Aly must post $100,000 letter of credit in a New York bank as a "guarantee" that Yasmin will be returned at the end of the six-week period. It also provides for a written promise from Aly's father, the Aga Khan, that the child will be returned.

The screen star arrived in New York yesterday. She was accompanied by Yasmin and another daughter, Rebecca, 10, whose father is Orson Welles, learned today.

PARIS, Sept. 14 (UP)—Twenty members of the French National Assembly, headed by Pierre Schneiter, left by plane for Moscow today on a goodwill visit.

Their plane was the first French commercial airliner the Russians have permitted to fly over Soviet territory on a non-stop trip from Paris to Moscow.

The airliner, a Latécoère-631 with eight passengers and a crew of seven, disappeared Sunday on a 700-mile flight from Fort Lamy, French West Africa, to Douala, a port on the Gulf of Guinea in French Equatorial Africa, it was learned today.

CONVICT SAYS HE WAS FORCED TO ADMIT MURDER

Denies Confession at Trial in Prison Death — Charges Officers 'Boxed Ears.'

Joseph M. Vidauri, last of seven convicts to be tried for killing Walter Lee Donnell, a St. Louis convict, in the riot at the Missouri Penitentiary last Sept. 22, testified today that he signed a statement admitting participation in the murder only after officers "boxed my ears and pointed weapons at me."

A spokesman for the marketing association said that present day junior sales stress the practical aspect by having young feeders sell their stock in competitive trading, instead of competing in a show for awards and then selling their calves in a special auction as in the past.

SIXTH DAY OF HUNT FOR CAT

Mrs. Frank W. Bergwall Sr. of Allentown, Pa., and her 6-year-old son, Frank Jr., today began the sixth day of their unsuccessful search for their runaway cat near Chain-of-Rocks Bridge in St. Louis county.

RED APOLOGY ASKED AGAIN FOR HOLDING CONGRESSMAN

MOSCOW, Sept. 14 (AP)—The United States embassy yesterday renewed its request for a Soviet government apology in the case of a United States congressman who was held at pistol point by a Russian army officer for more than an hour here last month.

The incident was reported by Representative Holt (Rep.), Calif., Aug. 31. The embassy sent a protest to the Kremlin on Sept. 7 and asked for an apology.

Yesterday's follow-up note was sent after the embassy reported it had received no reply.

AUSTRALIA CHARGES SPYING BY RUSSIA

Soviet Embassy Used as Cloak for Espionage, Says Commission.

CANBERRA, Sept. 14 (UPI)—Russia used its embassy here as a "cloak under which to control and operate an espionage organization in Australia," a royal commission reported today.

The commission submitted to Parliament a 500-page report on its 10-month investigation of Soviet spy operations following the defection of the Soviet embassy's third secretary, Vladimir Petrov, April 3, 1954.

The report said Russia operated a widespread spy ring and fifth column movement in Australia under direct control of Moscow. It said the embassy was used as a front for this operation from 1943 through March 1954.

Soviet agents gained valuable information from the Department of External Affairs from 1945 through 1948 but Australian counter-intelligence put a stop to that, the investigators said.

The commission recommended no prosecutions because of the inadequacy of Australia's anti-subversion laws but named three persons it said were indirectly guilty of prejudicing the nation's security. They are a Communist party leader and two newspaper men.

14,110-FOOT PIKE'S PEAK

COLORADO SPRINGS, Sept. 14 (AP)—A Wichita (Kan.) pilot yesterday became the first man to land a helicopter on the 14,110-foot summit of Pike's Peak.

Jack Zimmerman landed on the summit just 28 minutes after taking off from Peterson Field, which is 17.8 miles from the mountain by air. Zimmerman circled once over the peak at about 1000 feet and then settled the helicopter down vertically.

He was piloting the CH-1 helicopter in an altitude evaluation flight for Cessna Aircraft Co. and the Army.

NEW PLANE VIOLATION CHARGED TO GODFREY

Ozark Airlines Pilot Says He Flew Too Close at Chicago.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Administration is investigating a complaint that Arthur Godfrey's plane passed "far too close" to an Ozark Airlines plane after taking off from Chicago's Midway airport last Wednesday. Godfrey, nationally known for his television and radio shows, denies it.

The pilot and co-pilot of an Ozark twin-engined DC3 said that a plane overtook them shortly after departure from the airport and made a left turn so close across their course that they had to reduce speed to avoid the plane's propwash.

The CAA identified the plane as Godfrey's plushly outfitted blue and white executive type DC3. It said it is investigating to determine whether there has been any violation of flight rules.

The CAA grounded Godfrey for six months in 1954 for buzzing the Terboro (N.J.) control tower.

In a telephone call from New York, Godfrey said he remembered the Ozark-Chicago incident well because the other plane was from an airline new to him, and because he heard the airliner pilot radio Midway Airport for his (Godfrey's) identity.

Godfrey, commenting that Midway is generally rated the busiest airport in the United States, said both he and the Ozark airliner were cleared by ground control to take off from runway 4.

"The tower cleared the plane ahead, and immediately afterward cleared me on to the runway and cleared me for take-off," Godfrey said.

"My course was to Moline (Ill.), which meant a long left turn all the way around. The DC3 ahead of me obviously was bound for the same place and made the same turn."

There we were, both climbing with me behind but overtaking him because I have the big R200 engines and am faster than he is.

"As is customary in such circumstances when flying VFR (visual flight rules), I pulled off to the right and kept higher above him, so that I had him below me and in my sight and a safe distance away."

Godfrey said he followed "normal, common sense procedure" in pulling off to the right and was so far from the other plane that neither could identify the other. He said there was no danger of collision.

Complaint Filed at Airline Headquarters Here.

The complaint against the Godfrey plane was filed at Ozark headquarters in St. Louis by Pilot Capt. Robert Brown, 2 Bedford avenue, Brentwood, and co-pilot Ray Ford, 3300 Maywood avenue, Normandy.

The company forwarded the report to the Civil Aeronautics Administration here.

Gordon Williams, supervisory agent in St. Louis, told the Post-Dispatch that he relayed the complaint to the Chicago office in conformity with procedure requiring that investigations take place in the area in which alleged breach of regulations occurs. Federal regulations require a minimum distance between planes of 500 feet except in cases of pre-arrangement.

NEW METHODS REDUCING LOSSES IN FOREST FIRES

NEW YORK (UPI)—The United States Forest Service estimates that modernized fire-fighting equipment has whittled down the average cost of bringing a forest fire under control to about $600, with the steel tank truck and bulldozer combination standing out as the most potent fire-fighting teams.

Steelways, publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute, says steel lookout towers are now replacing the older wooden ones and planes patrol vast areas to spot sleepers—smoldering fires beyond the range of the lookouts.

It points out that once a fire is located, the mechanized power of the ground equipment brings it in check. Thousand-gallon tank trucks, fast fire patrol wagons, hill-climbing jeeps equipped with two-way radios, and big trucks bringing bulldozers onto the scene, combine forces to bring fires under control often in a matter of hours.

Cow Has 7 Calves in 13 Months.

ANAMOOSA, N.D. (UPI)—A cow owned by Farmer Elroy Becker gave birth to seven calves in 13 months. Five of the calves still are living. The cow gave birth to triplets and 13 months later, quadruplets were born. All the triplets and two of the quadruplets survived.

PILOT TESTIFIES AMERICAN P.O.W. SPOKE AT RED RALLY

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14 (AP)—An Air Force fighter pilot Lt. Col. Carl L. Aubrey testified yesterday that Specialist 3C Thomas Bayes Jr. spoke at a Red rally while he was a prisoner of war in North Korea.

Bayes is being tried before a court-martial on several counts of actively assisting the enemy. He pleaded not guilty.

Aubrey, shot down over North Korea in March 1951, testified that in September Bayes was the only prisoner to speak at a rally attended by 2000 prisoners.

"The impression I received was that the speech was derogatory to the United States and the war aims of the United Nations," Aubrey said. "I do not recall the specific words."

OIL FIRMS ORDERED TO REDUCE IMPORTS

Government Warns 18 Companies It May Have to Impose Quotas.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Government told 18 oil companies yesterday to reduce their imports sharply or quotas would be imposed.

Imports of crude oil in the first seven months of this year were nearly 15 per cent above the same period in 1954, and imports of residual (fuel) oil were up more than 23 per cent.

It is the Government's policy to hold imports to the same proportion of domestic crude oil production as obtained last year. Government figures show domestic production up about 5 per cent in the first seven months of 1955.

In letters to the 18 importing companies, Defense Mobilizer Arthur S. Flemming asked for assurances by Sept. 21 that they would reduce their imports to the required ratio.

Voluntary Action.

"I want to be certain that a solution on the basis of voluntary action is not available before any Government action is taken," he said.

Flemming added:

"The situation, stated simply, is that the decisions that have been made to date will not assure the maintenance of that amount of oil production in this country which the presidential advisory committee (on energy supplies and resources) found is necessary to the national defense.

"It appears inescapable that in the absence of individual voluntary action by the importing companies, over and above that already taken, the Government will have to take action as provided for in the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1955."

This legislation gives the President authority to impose import quotas if imports threaten to reduce American oil production to a point where the country would be endangered should it be cut off from foreign oil sources by an emergency.

Congressional Action.

The authority was written into the act by members of Congress from oil-producing states, who would have been reluctant to support an extension of the trade agreements law without it.

Flemming's action received applause from the coal industry.

Mine owners for years have been trying to get the Government to limit fuel oil imports on the ground they were being "dumped" on the east coast and harming coal markets.

STATE EMPLOYMENT OFFICE
FOUND 11,318 AUGUST JOBS

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 14 (AP)—Missouri State Employment Service offices found jobs for 11,318 persons last month compared with 25,404 in July.

Gordon P. Weir, director of the Division of Employment Security, reported the figures yesterday. He noted that the demand for harvest workers created 17,761 farm jobs in July, against only 1755 last month.

Non-farm placements increased about 25 per cent from 7643 to 9563.

HUTCHINS DERIDES LEGION'S CRITICISM

Calls Attack on Fund for Republic Misleading and Libelous.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (UP)—The Fund for the Republic terms as "misleading and libelous" statements by American Legion's 17,000 post commanders "so that we may send (an) annual report of (the) fund."

"If contrary to Legion policy to release this list, fund will supply sufficient copies of report to enable Legion headquarters to mail to all local commanders," the telegram said.

The fund's president, Robert M. Hutchins, demanded in a telegram sent to the Legion's adjutant, Henry H. Dudley, yesterday that the Legion give the names and addresses of the Legion's 17,000 post commanders "so that we may send (an) annual report of (the) fund."

Legionnaires are entitled to know (the) facts about the fund and its program in support of Constitution and the Bill of Rights."

Collins accused the $15,000,000 fund on Sunday of "trying to propagandize Americans into believing that Communism never has been and is not now a threat to this country."

The fund was set up by the Ford Foundation in 1952 with an original grant of $15,000,000. It is an independent organization and has its own board of directors headed by former OPA chief Paul Hoffman.

Hutchins told the United Press that Collins' statement was "misleading in that it was completely erroneous as to what the Fund for the Republic is all about." He said the statement was "libelous in that it said we have contempt for the American form of Government."

The fund was established,

MUNSAN, Korea, Sept. 14 (UPI)—Communist North Korea has promised to release three South Korean soldiers captured as "spies" the United Nations command announced today. The Communists said the South Koreans would be turned over to the U.N. command at Panmunjom Friday.

United States Navy Capt. David L. Roscoe Jr., member of the Joint Military Armistice commission secretariat, denied Communist charges that the men were "armed agents dispatched to North Korea on an espionage mission."

The Communists charged that the U.N. command sent two armed ships into North Korean waters July 22 "to kidnap a number of North Korean fishermen for espionage reasons."

The Reds said they captured one vessel with 24 men aboard including the three to be returned to South Korea. No mention was made of the other 21 men but Peking radio said earlier those who formerly lived in North Korea "may return" to their old homes.

PANAMA CITY, Sept. 14 (AP)—A face-lifting job on the Panama canal designed to end the threat of a rockfall into the big ditch was completed yesterday.

Corp. of Dallas, Tex. A break along the rocky crest of the hill posed the threat of a slide early this year.

The project was completed without any interruption to shipping. The hill overlooking narrow Gaillard cut has been turned into a set of giant stairs.

Now...Four Roses (America's finest blended whiskey)

introduces a companion...Four Roses BOURBON

Today—as in the past—Four Roses Blended Whiskey stands out as the whiskey we firmly believe to be the finest in America.

Millions share this belief...and have proved it by buying more Four Roses than any other whiskey at or above its price.

Now—just for those who drink bourbon—the makers of Four Roses are introducing Four Roses Bourbon—a whiskey which we know to be head and shoulders above any other bourbon in America:

For it is more than just a single fine whiskey. It is a skillful blending of several straight bourbon whiskies—each contributing its own particular virtue...aroma, body, smoothness, mellow ness. In no other way is it possible to achieve a bourbon of the finest flavor and quality—a bourbon that is truly uniform from bottle to bottle, from year to year.

If you are a bourbon drinker, be sure to try this magnificent bourbon today.

SHIP LINES SUE FOR LOWER TOLLS AT PANAMA CANAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Twelve United States steamship companies filed suit yesterday against the Panama Canal Commission for a reduction in transit tolls and a refund of $27,000,000 in past tolls. The suit in United States District Court in New York was announced here by the American Merchant Marine Institute. The action was taken by a recently formed committee on Panama canal tolls. Its secretary, George C. Charlton, said the suit "represents the considered views of the leading United States shipping companies using the Panama canal."

The shipping firms say the canal company—A United States Government-owned corporation—has failed to prescribe tolls according to a formula laid down by Congress in 1950.

Those bringing the suit are Grace Lines, Ishbrandsen, Luckenbach, Matson Navigation,

NON-SUPPORT CASE FAILS—WRONG MAN ON TRIAL

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 14 (AP)—The man, charged with nonsupport, stood before Judge Edwin Babylon in municipal court yesterday.

"It is true," the judge asked. "that you haven't supported this woman for the past year?"

"It is, your honor," the man replied.

"And these children?" the judge went on, "you haven't contributed anything to their support in the same period?"

"That is correct, your honor."

"Do you have anything to say in your defense?" the judge asked.

"Nothing, your honor, except that I never saw any of them before."

A check of the docket showed the wrong defendant was being tried.

Gen. Claudio Trezzani Dies.

ROME, Sept. 14 (AP)—Gen. Claudio Trezzani, veteran of World War II, died yesterday after a long illness. Trezzani was named Italian chief of staff in 1948.

NEW MATRIMONIAL COURT TO STRESS RECONCILIATION

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—A new court has been created to handle matrimonial disputes and child custody cases with emphasis on reconciliation.

The new family part of the State Supreme Court will consider cases before they are placed on a trial calendar. Outside counseling services, including psychiatric help if needed, will be included in efforts to patch up the trouble.

INDICTED PROSECUTOR LOSES IN NEW YORK PRIMARY

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—A New York city district attorney, under federal indictment in connection with his activities while a Congressman, has been defeated for the Democratic nomination for another term as prosecutor.

Queens county District Attorney T. Vincent Quinn lost by a slim margin in yesterday's primary election to state Senator Frank D. O'Connor, who was backed by the county Democratic organization.

Another highlight of the primary results in New York city was Tammany Hall victories in contests for Democratic district leaderships in Manhattan. Tammany leader Carmine G. DeSapio, who is New York state's Democratic national committeeman, hailed the primary results as a "clear mandate" for the program and policies of Tammany under his leadership.

The indictment against Quinn, returned three years ago and not yet brought to trial, charges he practiced law before a federal agency while a Congressman, in alleged violation of a federal statute passed in civil war days. Tax cases were involved.

EVIDENCE OF RED CELL OPERATING IN GOVERNMENT

House Committee Inquiry Indicates Group Was Still at Work
Last Year.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (UPI)—The House Un-American Activities Committee has evidence that a Communist cell operated within the Government as late as 1954, Chairman Francis E. Walter (Dem., Pennsylvania), said today.

He told reporters a preliminary inquiry by the committee indicates that "upwards of 150 persons" were in the cell at one time or another and that "some of them were in rather responsible positions." But he said there is no evidence at present that any of the cell members still work for the Government.

Walter said his House committee would hold public hearings on the Communist cell matter as soon as Congress reconvenes in January.

He said there was no doubt about its members "being Communists." He said the committee's evidence was obtained from "some people who were in this thing" and who furnished "a lot of valuable information."

He said the cell members were on the federal payroll "during the time covered by our preliminary inquiry, which included 1954."

There were no indications that the committee has uncovered any links between the 1954 Communist cell and the ones uncovered in past years by other congressional investigations.

FARMERS PLAGUED BY TUMBLEWEED, UNWANTED CROP

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—A great many farmers around here face some sort of pitchfork, drill this fall and winter. They'll harvest a crop they can't sell, can't eat, can't feed their cattle, can't afford not to harvest.

The plant is the tumbleweed. The plant is the tumbleweed. Wind whips them across level ground until they hit a fence or other barrier and then they pile up. They bury the fence. Sheltered lawns also are buried several feet deep.

Tumbleweeds range from knee high to waist high. Their limbs grow into a light, ball-like mass of tough branches. They break from the ground easily and children like to race them as the wind rolls them along.

Where the weeds pile up, they burn as if they were gasoline-saturated. If they're left along a fence row, winter winds bury them in silt and can completely cover the fence in dirt. Then nothing less than a bulldozer moves them successfully.

OFFICIAL URGES CHANGE IN REFORMING CRIMINALS

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Undue leniency in treatment of criminals in the nation's prisons may be unfair to society and to youth, a Wisconsin official believes.

State Assistant Attorney General William A. Platz told a convention of correctional personnel in Milwaukee that present emphasis on reform of criminals and their speedy return to society must be tempered with "some consideration for society."

Platz said that if young people observed undue leniency in treatment of criminals, they would not be deterred from "similar crimes."

He urged that a system of criminal law be enacted to meet standards of corrective law to replace the present system which, he said, was "a hodge-podge, archaic and difficult to understand."

JUDGE'S CURBSTONE OPINION

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—City Judge C. C. Wright witnessed an automobile accident, then watched as one irate woman driver assailed the other one. He interposed to say he thought the irate one was in the wrong.

"That will be for the judge to decide," she snapped.

"I am the judge, lady," he replied. The case was settled out of court.

U.S. Engineers in Arctic Study Making Electricity From Snow

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (UPI)

On the ice cap, Robert R. Philippe said today, "you have to attempt the fantastic."

That is why a handful of Army Engineers at the top of the world, 1000 miles across the North Pole from Russia, are planning to make electricity out of snow.

That is why the Army Engineers have perfected techniques for building subways, with arched roofs of hardened snow, under the Arctic ice.

That is why they have developed electronic devices for spotting hidden crevasses and for guiding men and machines through the mysterious "white-out."

Ice Two Miles Thick.
Philippe, 50-year-old chief of the Army Engineers' special engineering branch, has just returned from his fourth tour of duty in three years at Tuto, on the edge of Greenland's two-mile-thick ice cap.

Tuto, 775 miles inside the Arctic Circle, is 15 miles north of Thule, the Air Force base which is this country's northernmost outpost of defense against H-bomb attack over the Pole. Tuto's letters stand for "Thule Takeoff." It is not the Engineers' most advance camp. That is Fischtchen, 200 miles farther out on the cap.

The Army Engineers have been carrying one some 24 "research and development" projects out of Tuto for three years.

This year, during the summer period of the midnight sun, 275 men have been operating out of Tuto, venturing occasionally on journeys of as much as 1300 miles on the ice cap. Except for four or five who will stay through the winter, these men are now pulling out until next summer.

The contingent includes 170 enlisted men, seven officers, two warrant officers, and 90-odd civilians, among them a number of engineering students not yet out of college and a number of recent graduates.

Problem of Power.
Power to run military machines and instruments obviously is a problem in a country where there is no coal or oil or wood or anything but snow packed into ice averaging 10,000 feet thick.

Nuclear power has been investigated. The engineers are now building at Fort Belvoir, Va., a model of a "power package" plant whose parts can be transported to remote bases like those by airplane.

Meanwhile, Philippe said, the engineers have studied wind-driven power plants, solar plants, the prospects of which he said are "very encouraging" and "snow-power" plants.

He conceded that making power out of snow "sounds fantastic." No snow power plant has yet been built. But ideal have been worked out as to how it would operate. Its chances of success stem from the fact that the ice cap is not a level plain but has slopes and hills and peaks ranging up to 2300 feet above the surrounding area.

Where there would be a fall of around 1500 feet in half a mile, say, you would set up an automatic "snow mining" machine at the top. It would dump

BOND DEADLINE ON GAMING DEVICE SALESMAN NOV. 14

DECATUR, Ill. (UPI) — The bondsman for missing gambling device salesman Walter Clininn, 57 years old, Chicago, has been given until Nov. 14 to produce Clininn, proof of his death or forfeit $4000 bond.

Attorneys for bondsman Charles Cohn, Chicago, appeared before Circuit Judge Martin E. Morthland Monday to ask for a 60-day extension before judgment was entered for forfeiture of the bond. Morthland granted the extension after Cohn filed an affidavit promising to pay, produce Clininn or proof of his death.

Clininn, under indictment on charges of forging an attorney general's legal opinion, disappeared July 16 after leaving his Chicago apartment. The forged legal opinion declared a slot machine attachment made by Taylor and Co., Clininn's employer, was legal. But Attorney General Lathan Castle had actually ruled it illegal.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — Eighty freshman students had enrolled Tuesday for the first classes at Evangel College, newly opened Assemblies of God liberal arts school here.

No classes for upper classmen will be held this year, but will be added each year to complete a full four-year program. Representative Dewey Short (Rep.), Missouri, predicted at opening ceremonies recently the new college would have an enrollment of 1000 by 1960.

The college is located on the property formerly known as the O'Reilly General Hospital. President is Klaude Kendrick, a Texas educator.

CABINET RESHUFFLE LIKELY IN BRITAIN

Eden Expected to Appoint
New Minister of Labor.

By JOSEPH NEWMAN
The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch
Special Radio.
LONDON, Sept. 14 — Prime Minister Eden is expected to announce a Cabinet reshuffle next week after informing Queen Elizabeth II of the changes he intends to make. Sir Anthony and Lady Eden will be guests of the Queen this weekend at Balmoral castle, in Scotland.

The most important change will involve Sir Walter Monckton, 64-year-old Minister of Labor, who has been eager to withdraw from the government service for some time.

Monckton has acquired a singular reputation as an arbitrator of disputes between workers and employees. He is credited with having averted a number of strikes and with having used extraordinary skill in bringing strikes to a close.

A distinguished attorney, Monckton wanted to resign from the Cabinet when Sir Winston Churchill retired from the prime ministership in April, but Eden prevailed on him to remain a while longer.

It is generally believed that Ian MacLeod, 41-year-old Minister of Health, will replace Monckton.

Another change will bring the resignation of Harry Crookshank, 62-year-old Conservative party leader on the floor of the House of Commons. He is likely to be elevated to the peerage.

James Stuart, secretary for Scottish affairs, and Maj. Gwilym Lloyd-George, home secretary, were mentioned as possible successors.

Finally, Viscount Wrolton, 72-year-old chairman of the Conservative party, will resign from the Cabinet, in which he sits as chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster. This portfolio holds no fixed assignment and its holder is available for special services to the Prime Minister.

These and other less important changes will bring the retirement of men originally appointed by Sir Winston. Their successors have been identified more closely with Sir Anthony.

11 COMMUNISTS GIVE UP STRUGGLE FOR NEW TRIAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP) — Eleven second-rank Communist party leaders have given up their struggle for a new trial. They were convicted in January, 1953, of conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the Government. After various appeals failed, they went to jail in January, 1954.

A friend of the defendants explained last night that the terms of some of the jailed party leaders would be finished in a few months, and the others would soon be eligible for release with time off for good behavior.

The 11 contended they were convicted on perjured testimony. They cited testimony by Harvey Matusow that he lied about them when testifying as a government witness.

The motion for a new trial, already turned down twice by United States District Judge Edward Dimock, was withdrawn in federal court.

BALLOT PROTESTED

Constitutional a Misnomer.
Oct. 4 Referendum Backers Point Out.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 14 — Missouri voters who go to the polls Oct. 4 in a special statewide referendum election will receive a printed ballot headed "constitutional ballot," but the two propositions being submitted make no change in the state constitution.

Likewise a recent legal publication of the text of two legislative acts being referred to the voters, in newspapers in each county in the state, carried a title "Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of Missouri," although the organic state law is not involved.

This has resulted in numerous protests to Secretary of State Walter H. Toberman by backers of the proposals, and others, objecting that no constitutional changes are involved, and that voters could be misled.

Both proposals involve acts passed by the 1955 legislature and referred by the assembly to the voters for ratification. Referendum measure No. 2 is a new public school foundation program to provide more liberal and more uniform state aid to public school districts.

Measure No. 1 is a proposed new state cigarette tax of two cents a package, the revenue to be used toward financing the school foundation program.

Toberman said today the printed ballot, submitting the two referendum measures No. 1 and No. 2, and the required publication of the text, were printed with "constitutional" captions under legal advice that the state election laws required this, even though no constitutional amendment was being voted on.

The secretary of state explained that while the constitutional designation had to be used, to comply with election laws, the matters involved were legislative only, would not become a part of the constitution, and could be amended by the legislature in the future, if approved by the voters in the special election.

TWO SERVICE MEN KILLED
IN 122 MP.H. ALSAKAN WINDS

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Sept. 14 (AP) — Winds that reached 122 miles an hour killed two service men and injured 12 others last week at a remote military installation on the Bering sea coast, the Air Force reported yesterday.

The storm, at Cape Newenham, 490 miles northwest of here, toppled reinforced frame tents and demolished a building used as a theater and recreation hall.

Injured fatally were Pfc. Virgil Lee Evans of Jackson, Miss., and Airman First Class Bobby J. Bible of Mosheim, Tenn. They were in the wrecked recreation building. Ten men were hit by flying debris and two others were caught in demolished tents. None was injured seriously.

CAMBODIAN OFFICIAL JAILED
AFTER PLOT IS UNCOVERED

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia, Sept. 14 (AP) — The government today arrested one official of the defeated Democratic party and restricted movements of its other leaders to prevent post-election troublemaking in Cambodia.

Jailed was Keng Van Sak, deputy secretary general of the once dominant Democrats. He is accused of directing a plot to assassinate former Premier Sam Sary and Sim Var, secretary general of former King Norodom Sihanouk's popular Socialist party. Sihanouk's party won all 91 seats in the national assembly in elections Sunday.

Other members of the Democratic party's executive committee have been placed under police surveillance.

Earl Martin, 3959 McPherson Avenue, a painter, reported to police the loss of his billfold containing $1900 during a scuffle at a midtown hotel early today.

Martin told police he had been having some drinks with a young woman when a man who identified himself as her husband entered the hotel room and demanded some money. Martin and the man grappled but Martin broke away and fled, he said.

As he was leaving the lobby, he told police the clerk and the clerk's wife attempted to intercept him but he succeeded in reaching the street where he found his trouser pocket torn and the billfold missing. Police were investigating the report.

PAY-AND-SUE ADVICE GIVEN TO TAXPAYERS

CHICAGO (UPI) — Federal taxpayers who are assessed added amounts by the Internal Revenue commissioner would do well to follow a "pay-up-and-sue" policy, Commerce Clearing House said.

The clearing house said more than half the taxpayers who followed that policy got their money back with interest when they paid their alleged deficiencies, then sued for refunds in United States district courts.

Taxpayers who applied for relief to the United States Tax Court, where pre-trial payment is not required, did not fare so well. The clearing house said that the commissioner's deficiency assessments were upheld, either totally or partly, in three out of four cases.

Subsequent appeals from the tax court to appellate courts also went against taxpayers, at a rate of three to two.

U.S. LAWYER NOTES SOVIET LAW REFORM

Rights of Accused Strengthened. Harvard Professor Says in Moscow.

MOSCOW, Sept. 10 (Delayed in transmission) (AP) — A broad law reform movement is underway in the Soviet Union, sharply strengthening the rights of the accused and lessening the sentences of many crimes, a Harvard University law professor said today.

Speaking to an audience at the Soviet Academy of Sciences' law institute, Prof. Harold J. Berman said he had learned that a new draft code of criminal procedure is near completion.

This provides, he said, for "strengthening the rights of the accused, giving the accused the right of counsel at some stages of the preliminary investigation and making the investigator more independent" of government administrators.

Berman, author of three books on Soviet law, arrived in Russia four weeks ago for a visit. He is said to have waited eight years for a visa.

Since his arrival he has talked to outstanding Russian jurists, sat in on court trials and discussed cases with judges.

Berman's speech, the first public comments on the Russian legal system made by an American lawyer in the Soviet Union, was a frank appraisal of Russian practices.

Discussing Russian legal history, he recalled the Soviet struggle for a legal system which would be independent of the state party, or "what we call in the United States public policy."

Berman said he wondered whether the "repressiveness of Soviet law with respect to political crimes is a reflection merely of the fact that the revolution still is not secure or of a basic Soviet conception that politics is beyond law and that law is basically an instrument of politics and can never itself control the top leadership of the state."

Berman said his visit had strengthened his conviction that the opening of Russian legal developments to American and other foreign lawyers "can only improve the reputation of Soviet law abroad. It cannot hurt it."

MEN WITH NAMES THE SAME WERE BORN SAME DAY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Instructors at the language school at Lackland Air Force Base are convinced that coincidences come in bunches.

Airman 3c Heinrich Hogen-dorf and Airman 2c Heinrich Marschik noticed the sameness in their first names when they joined the school's staff early this year. Then they discovered how far the coincidence goes.

Marschik was born near Frankenburg-Eder, Germany; Hogen-dorf a few miles away. Both were born on Feb. 3, 1930.

Hogen-dorf came to the United States in 1950 as a cadet in the Dutch Air Force and was assigned to Randolph Air Force Base, also near San Antonio.

During the same period, Marschik was studying at Oregon University as an exchange journalism student. Hogen-dorf returned to the United States as an immigrant in 1953; Marschik in 1952.

Both applied for citizenship on the same day, took their citizenship tests on the same day and were both declared United States citizens at the same time by the same federal judge on July 25.

TO RESCUE A BABY BUNNY

GREAT BEND, Kan. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Copeland do not believe time-worn expression "timid as a rabbit" any more. On a recent visit to the cemetery at Harper, Kan., they saw a cottontail jump into battle with a big snake and caught a baby rabbit.

The grown rabbit kicked with its hind legs, several times was tossed into the air, once was trapped with the snake coiled around its body.

The baby rabbit escaped in the excitement—and so did the cottontail, after kicking itself free and returning to the attack.

STRIKERS REJECT PROPOSAL

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 14 (AP) — Striking members of Local 601, International Union of Electrical workers, turned down today a proposal to end a six-week strike at Westinghouse East Pittsburgh plant. The local started a walkout that made idle 26 other Westinghouse plants in nine states.

QUEENSTOWN, Md. (AP) — Harvey Williams is driving a car with different wheels. Someone stole the white tires and wheels from his car but left another set. Williams asked police if it was all right to keep the new set. They said they were satisfied if he was.

How do you drink this different drink?

To appreciate today's magnificently dry Puerto Rican rum, you should use several approaches.

First drink it straight—or on the rocks with a twist of lemon. Savor the full effect of its superb dry flavor.

Then try it in a tall glass. See how subtly it harmonizes with your favorite mixer.

Which brand should you buy? All Puerto Rican rums are light and dry—yet each is subtly different. Try several to find your favorite. An excellent brand is Christopher Columbus.

I Want a Heart to Heart
Talk with Everyone Wearing False Teeth!

I had fourteen upper and lower teeth extracted at eight o'clock in the morning and full upper and lower plates slipped in my mouth at three o'clock in the afternoon. It was agony but being a salesman, I couldn't go around without teeth so I couldn't afford to stay out of circulation while my gums healed.

Anyway, my dentist told me it would take a few plates right if I could stand the pain. I thought I'd never live thru those first few weeks but somehow I managed to survive. He also told me that everybody's gums shrink after teeth are extracted and my shrinkage would be worse than usual because I had a bad case of periodontitis. I was ill never forget trying to close a big contract and lost it because my teeth fell right out on the buyer's desk. Was I embarrassed? I'll tell the world.

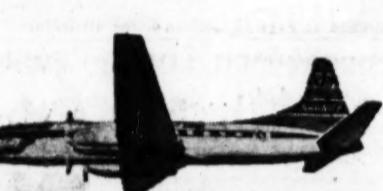

Did I ever hot-foot it back to my dentist the next day. Of course he had warned me about this so I really didn't blame him because my plates loosened up. There was nothing to do but let him take another impression and make two new plates. I thought I was all set for awhile, but no such luck. It was only a couple of months before my plates loosened up again and my gums got awfully sore.

I couldn't afford another set of teeth right away because business hadn't been so good. So I tried powders and stickums but they were messy and a pain in the neck. Every time I ate, I had to duck into a washroom and clean my plates. I thought I would go "nuts"—when a miracle happened! A friend told me about Snug brand Denture Cushions. I didn't believe him at first but took out his teeth and showed me this new soft plastic had tiny little holes in it. Believe me! I took right down to the drug store and bought a package—took them home—and, in a few minutes after following the simple directions, my plates were completely re-lined—tight as a drum.

I was like a new person. I could eat anything—corn on the cob or chew the toughest steak. I could talk my head off and never worry about losing my teeth. Another thing I found out—Snug brand Denture Cushions were so easy to clean. All I had to do was brush them with cold water. How long did they last? Well, in my case they lasted about two months. And then it was a simple matter to peel out the plastic and put in another set of cushions. Because Snug brand Denture Cushions are soft plastics, they never get hard or stick so tight that they ruin your plates.

And so my friends, why don't you profit by my experience. Don't blame your dentist if your gums shrink and your plates loosen up. Get Snug brand Denture Cushions and enjoy tight-fitting false teeth. Forget you ever had sore gums due to loose fitting dentures. See your druggist and you will find the Snug brand denture $1.50 for Snug brand Denture Cushions. If you are not satisfied, the manufacturer will refund your money. What could be fairer?

Yours for tighter teeth,
Joseph Snug

Adenauer Faces Mixed Feelings In Germany About Results of His Talks With Soviet Leaders

Wide Satisfaction Over Prospect of Early Release of Prisoners but Concern Over Diplomatic Relations Lest They Mean Recognition of East Germany.

By DAVID M. NICHOL

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1955.

BONN, Sept. 14.

CHANCELLOR ADENAUER flew back to Bonn today to face mixed feelings both among the people and parliament of Western Germany as a result of his mission to Moscow. There is the widest satisfaction over the prospect of early release of some 10,000 German prisoners who the Soviets insist are serving sentences as war criminals.

On the other hand there are concerns and misgivings about the agreement to exchange ambassadors between Bonn and Moscow. This stems not from any basic reluctance to be good neighbors but from fear that the exchange in practice may also mean recognition of East Germany's Communist regime, no denied in principle.

Bonn's General Anzeiger, a paper that normally is friendly to Adenauer, says the Chancellor in effect traded an ambassador for 10,000 prisoners.

Agreement on return of the prisoners was not mentioned in the formal documents signed Tuesday night in Moscow but was announced by Adenauer in his press conference shortly before his departure this morning.

'Success for Russia.'

While agreeing that final judgment must await fuller reports, the General Anzeiger says the Moscow talks seem to have been "more successful for the Soviet Union than for the Federal German Republic."

There is the impression that the Chancellor went further than he himself had planned and further than the Western Allies thought he would in consenting to full-scale diplomatic relations.

The communiqué is more than normally vague and obscure. Its most remarkable feature is the provision that exchange of ambassadors must depend on approval both by Bonn's Bundestag and Moscow's Supreme Soviet.

In ordinary procedure, governments would take such a step without and parliamentary debate or ratification.

Germans here suggest this may be the Chancellor's built-in safety valve. Bundestag action might be delayed, they say, until the prisoners actually were on their way home.

Adenauer's Reservations.

The Chancellor insisted in a separate letter that West Germany still considered itself as the only legitimate spokesman for all Germany and that boundary problems can only be settled in the form of peace treaty of which there is not a sign 10 years after the end of hostilities.

The Russians noted these views and likewise noted their disagreement.

The communiqué promises to be a cause of endless future difficulties. It speaks of "re-creation of unity of the German democratic state."

To Western ears that sounds simple and straightforward.

In the Soviet vocabulary "democratic state" means one with the Soviet-type political and economic controls like those introduced by the Communist regime in the Soviet-controlled zone of Germany.

There is the prospect, too, of lengthy haggles over two other Soviet demands.

One concerns the return from Germany of some 100,000 alleged Soviet "citizens" who still are here.

Second is Soviet insistence that the Germans halt the American-sponsored balloon launchings that carry propaganda pamphlets from Bavaria to the Eastern European satellites.

Dubious Policy.

Soviet "citizens" in Germany are the tragic remnants of one of the most dubious chapters of Allied policy. Some are Balts and Western Ukrainians whose homelands were absorbed by the Russians during the war years. Others are Russians who refused to return to the Communist system.

Thousands upon thousands were repatriated forcibly by the Allies, sometimes at bayonet point at the end of the war, many to face the grim prospect of Soviet punishment for treason or collaboration.

Those who escaped in most cases remained here as "stateless persons" mostly in the Munich area.

There would be the wildest kind of uproar should they now be expelled from Germany.

At least some Germans, meantime, would welcome Soviet complaint as a pretext for halting Crusade for Freedom's balloon launchings.

AGREEMENT STIRS DOUBTS IN BRITAIN

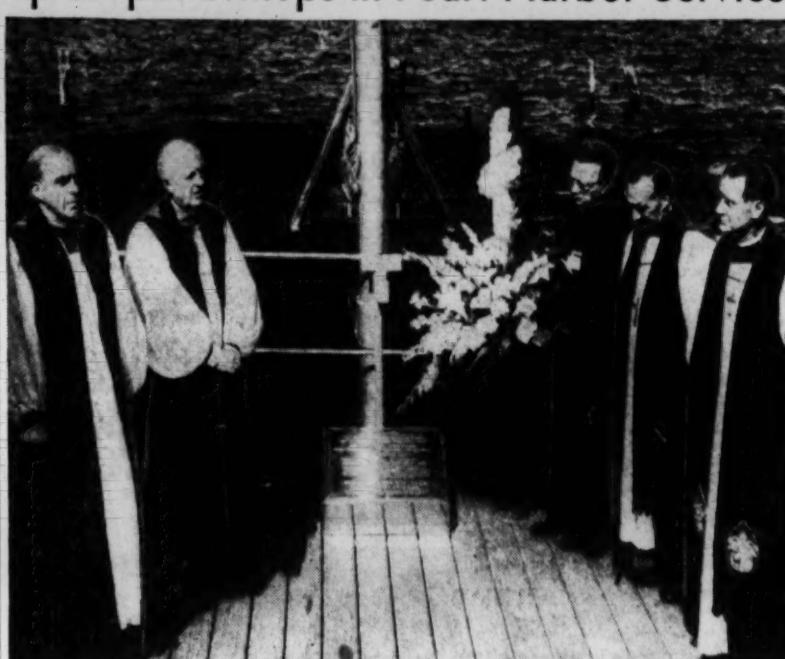

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

LONDON, Sept. 14—While British officials are trying to put a favorable construction on it, the announcement last night of an agreement between Bonn and Moscow has raised new doubts and misgivings here.

Announcement that West Germany and Russia would establish diplomatic and trade relations did not come as a surprise. It was widely assumed that the Kremlin was intent on this course when it disclosed its invitation to Chancellor Adenauer to visit Moscow.

Neither Britain nor its Western allies could very well oppose Adenauer's decision to es-

Text of Communique on Talks Between Russia and Germany

LONDON, Sept. 14 (AP).—The Moscow radio last night broadcast the following communique on the Russian-German talks:

ALKS between the Government delegation of the Soviet Union and the Government delegation of the German Federal Republic took place in Moscow from 9th to 13th September 1955.

(Two paragraphs listing the delegations headed by Premier Bulganin and Chancellor Adenauer are omitted.)

During the talks, which took place in an atmosphere of mutual understanding, there took place a broad and frank exchange of views on the question of mutual relations between the U.S.S.R. and the Federal German Republic. During the talks the question of the establishment of diplomatic relations between the Soviet Union and the Federal German Republic will further the settlement of pending problems affecting the whole of Germany, and must thus help the solution of the principal national problem of the German people—the re-establishment of the unity of the German democratic state.

In confirmation of the agreement reached, and expressed in letters, exchanged by the parties with a view to obtaining the approval of the federal government and of the Presidium of the U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet, for the establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries and the setting up, to this end, of embassies, in Bonn and in Moscow and to the exchange of diplomatic representatives of the rank of ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary.

Agreement was reached, and expressed in letters, exchanged by the parties with a view to obtaining the approval of the federal government and of the Presidium of the U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet, for the establishment of diplomatic relations between the Soviet Union and the Federal German Republic. During the talks the question of the establishment of diplomatic relations will contribute to the development of mutual understanding and co-operation between the Soviet Union and the German Federal Republic in the interests of peace and security of the U.S.S.R. and the Federal German Republic.

The parties are starting from the assumption that the establishment and development of normal relations between the Soviet Union and the Federal German Republic will further the settlement of pending problems affecting the whole of Germany, and must thus help the solution of the principal national problem of the German people—the re-establishment of the unity of the German democratic state.

In confirmation of the agreement reached, the chairman of the U.S.S.R. Council of Ministers and Federal Chancellor of the German Federal Republic exchanged letters, the text of which is annexed. The parties also agreed that there will shortly be conducted negotiations between the German Federal and the Soviet governments.

FRENCH FEEL RUSSIA GAINED

By PAUL GHALI

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1955.

PARIS, Sept. 14—Adenauer gave too much, received too little.

This is the general reaction in France to reports from Moscow that West Germany's Chancellor agreed to re-establish relations with Russia in exchange for somewhat vague assurances of return of German prisoners.

While the prisoners return—when and if it happens—would have a favorable impact on the German republic, re-opened Russian embassy and consulates in Western Germany would raise new problems of security for the whole Western world.

According to a top diplomatic source here, Adenauer had indicated to Washington, London and Paris, before leaving for Moscow, that he would not permit resumption of diplomatic ties unless some agreement on German reunification was well on its way.

It looks now as if he had given away to pressure from his own entourage. Apparently many members of his delegation were much impressed by the psychological effect the return of prisoners would have on the German masses.

But as one observer pointed out, the effect of the prisoner return after it comes about, will vanish, while Soviet diplomats will be in Germany to stay.

However, the French feel Adenauer scored a definite victory over East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht when he obtained the prisoner-release promise which Ulbricht himself had been seeking for 10 years.

Record August Bond Purchase.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (UPI)—Americans bought more series E and H savings bonds in August than in any other August.

The Treasury said today sales totaled $439,000,000, compared with $415,000,000 in August 1954, the previous August high.

Ace Diplomat To Try to End U.S.-Tito Rift

Robert Murphy Going to Belgrade on Military Aid Dispute.

By PETER LISAGOR

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1955.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14

ONE of the country's most experienced diplomatic trouble shooters will try his hand at settling differences between Washington and Yugoslavia over United States military aid.

Robert Murphy, deputy under secretary of state, is going to Belgrade to try to narrow the gap between Marshal Josip Tito and the Pentagon over Tito's refusal to allow American authorities to cover for themselves how this aid is being used.

Congress has insisted that the United States follow the flow of American equipment to foreign countries through to its ultimate end. But Tito regards this apparently as being too inquisitive and a threat to his independent line.

Warm-up to Moscow.

Coupled with Belgrade's recent warm-up to Moscow after a long and hostile break, Tito's attitude has resulted in misgivings here and an inclination to slow up the aid earmarked for Yugoslavia.

Murphy, who has served in some of the most delicate posts in the world both before and after the last war, is well-chosen for the assignment.

He acted as the chief intermediary between Yugoslavia and Italy at a time when a skillful push was necessary to break the diplomatic impasse over Trieste, which periodically threatened to flare up into a war.

He is held in high esteem as a diplomatic icebreaker.

Reds Honor Heretic.

Murphy undoubtedly will use his visit to Belgrade to evaluate the new relations between Tito and Moscow. The Kremlin rulers made the initial overtures in visiting Belgrade earlier this year in what many people described as a groveling exhibition before a heretic to the Communist faith.

The government of the Soviet Union expresses its conviction that the establishment of diplomatic relations between the Soviet Union and the Federal German Republic will further the settlement of pending problems affecting the whole of Germany, and must thus help the solution of the principal national problem of the German people—the re-establishment of the unity of the German democratic state.

CHILD'S

Pledge to Gruenther Is Cited As Evidence President Will Run

Eisenhower Said to Have Asked NATO

Chief to Stay on Job Until 1957, Promised to Reward Him Then.

By MARQUIS W. CHILD'S

A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.

THE GUESSING GAME over President Eisenhower's intentions in 1956 serves at least to fill in a dead spot in the news. But for some of the President's closest associates in the 40 years of his military career there has never been any doubt of his intentions since a certain meeting of minds in mid-May of this year.

At that time Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces, was in Washington on a liaison mission. He had a long private talk at the White House with his old friend and comrade-in-arms, the President.

That would be in August 1957 and obviously if Mr. Eisenhower were not President he could not fulfill such a pledge.

Ever since this word got around among military associates of the two men they have taken it for granted that the President would seek a second term. For professional military men rank and promotion are the breath of life. This was the conditioning the President had in the 40 years he wore the uniform. Such an assurance would not be given to an old friend lightly.

Gruenther's associates at SHAPE may make more of this than the circumstances justify and certainly Gruenther is the last person ever to admit that any such exchange took place.

But it is, in the view of this observer, one more piece of evidence confirming the President's reluctance to accept what may have been inevitable all along—the nomination for a second term. On the present tide of peace and prosperity seems to carry with it the inevitability of a second term.

Able Men in Army.

The new Chief of Staff of the Army, named to succeed Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, is Gen. Maxwell Taylor. Taylor, who has wide experience both in Europe and in Asia with an outstanding record, was considered almost certain to get the post if it did not go to Gruenther. Both are exceptionally able as well as brilliant. The Army has on the whole been more fortunate than the other services in having officers of remarkable capacity who have been able to move up through the system

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my platform will make a difference in its cardinal principles that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be daringly independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Where Ladue Could Lead

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

This is in regard to the recent communication from Arthur B. Shepley Jr., commanding Carroll J. Donohue for the latter's unselfish public service in establishing the validity of the County Police Department.

St. Louis county is also greatly indebted to Arthur B. Shepley Jr. for his tireless efforts as Chairman of the Citizens Commission on Law Enforcement in submitting to the county electorate the issue whether the people wanted a St. Louis County Police Department. At the polls the people declared overwhelmingly that such a department was wanted and badly needed.

Would it be too much to ask Mr. Shepley once more to perform another act of public service? As Marshal of the City of Ladue, Marshal Shepley could use his efforts, prestige and influence with the city fathers of Ladue in bringing that city's police force under the supervision of the County Police Department.

Such action by Ladue perhaps might be the beginning of a figurative parade of county municipalities, both large and small, to sign up and have the efficient police protection which they justly deserve and which Col. DuBois with his staff is earnestly striving to accord the unincorporated areas of the county.

Let us do away with the present balkanization of police protection in St. Louis county.

Ladue's coming under the superintendence of the County Police Department might be the start of a move to the goal sought by Col. DuBois and other honest police heads in various county municipalities: Efficient, economical and impartial police protection for the entire county.

READER.

A Dizzy Pace

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I am sympathetic and somewhat concerned at the plight of reader M. M. Mulholland who does not have time to thumb through the Post-Dispatch to find the stock market reports. It is not quite clear from his letter when the paper is delivered to Mr. Mulholland and when he has to leave. But in any event I get an impression that following the stock market is a dizzying pace.

I, too, think a front page index would be convenient but my need is not so acute. Pogo can always be found on the back page.

Ferguson. JOHN BRAWLEY.

Only Fair

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

This is in reply to Reader James A. Kearns Jr. who says it is a shame to link the city's fine sewer system with the county's headaches.

Our family moved to the county two months ago and now we are really concerned about the sewage problem.

We recall St. Louis contending not too long ago that because St. Louis counties used their roads, parks etc. it was only fair that they pay St. Louis earnings tax in order that they could help maintain these roads, it is going to have to police them.

Danger on the Turnpike

Motorists who think that fine new highways would necessarily reduce traffic fatalities can guess again. That idea is disproved in the Mirror of Public Opinion article on this page and also by a recent study of the Missouri Highway Patrol. George Thurmond, safety officer of the patrol, reported in St. Louis that most traffic accidents occur on straight stretches of major highways. The most common causes of fatal crashes are excessive speed and lack of attention to driving, both of which are encouraged by brand new highways. The moral of this finding is simply that fine pavement is no safer than the motorists on it, and unfortunately the motorists often need the encouragement of firm law enforcement to drive safely. As the nation builds new roads, it is going to have to police them.

The Home-Owner's Flood Bill

Some arrangement for flood insurance is certainly desirable, as Housing Commissioner Albert M. Cole asserts. But it is virtually unquestionable, as he suggested after a conference with representatives of the insurance business, that Government subsidy would be necessary. The reasons for this are simple.

People will not buy flood insurance unless they are in danger of floods. Consequently, the risk cannot be spread over a broad base, as is essential in any financially-sound insurance operation. Attempts have been made in the past to write flood insurance but it could lead to much litigation.

Furthermore, it would lack flexibility, as the Missouri Basin Survey Commission headed by Senator Hennings of Missouri pointed out.

If there is any profit to be gained from this prolonged shadow-boxing with the compact idea, it is through realization that a negative approach is not enough. The compact idea was taken up in the first place to avoid a valley authority, as Dick Fabric, Montana's representative on the Missouri River States Committee, who led the attack that junked the compact proposal, noted.

A far more promising approach would be to consider a managerial method because it promises to be good in itself. This the Governors have not yet started to do. They have shied away from it for the plain and simple reason that some single agency of management would be necessary, and there are too many people in public life in the Missouri Valley who want to continue to be able to play off one Government agency against the other.

Whenever the Governors, and the other public representatives who control the course of legislation, decide to quit playing balance-of-power politics with regional development, there may come about the integration to which all of them already give lip service.

It will almost certainly not come about before then.

Anything But Anonymous

Storied something a good deal more important than petty squabbling can be done by members of the House subcommittee investigating the Interior Department's changes in electric power policies. Chairman Chudoff, Pennsylvania Democrat, who has shown a regrettable tendency to partisan acrimony, touched off the latest tifflet by referring to a certain document as "anonymous." This was pretty silly, since Mr. Chudoff himself had disclosed three months ago that the memorandum on which the Interior Department based its policy changes was authored by the Pacific Gas & Electric Co.

Representative Hoffman, Michigan Republican, a member of the Chudoff subcommittee who has made himself the standing apologist for the Administration, objected strenuously to the reference to the document as "anonymous." And in this manner some of the time and opportunity of the subcommittee was frittered away.

Cannot both Democrats and Republicans in this important work rise above such profitless pique? The policies under consideration are high policies; the effect on the American public is considerable. The subject deserves the subcommittee's examination at a high level of competence.

Who Does Have Air Supremacy?

The answer to the question: Is the United States losing air supremacy to Soviet Russia? is one of the most important of the day. The Senate military preparedness subcommittee seeks the answer. Whatever that answer may be, it will have a bearing on the coming presidential election and the balancing of the national budget as well as on the status of military preparedness.

The question concerns the quantity and quality of jet intercontinental bombers, all-weather interceptors, radar warning station chains and guided missiles of all kinds—particularly the dread intercontinental ballistic missile, on which both Russia and the United States are reported to be working feverishly. It involves such controversies as the one over whether the Army's ground defense Nike missile can knock down an enemy bomber or whether the bomber can jam the missile with radar.

Such an inquiry is long overdue. The confusion among Congressmen and Pentagon officials has left the man in the street sadly bewildered. A straightforward answer, devoid of any semblance of politics, can dispel the fog.

Senator Symington, a member of the subcommittee, and the first Air Force Secretary, fears Russia is ahead in the race for the intercontinental missile. Bernard M. Baruch, the elder statesman, cautions that there must be no reduction in any branch of the armed services until the world situation becomes easier. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, head of the Air Force, said in a speech on Aug. 31 at Boston that an air attack "could pour out of the Soviet Union engulfing and overwhelming not only cities or states but our entire nation." The week before, at Dayton, he said that the Air Force had already begun "the long and delicate transition from planes to missiles for some of its missions."

The Senate inquiry may prove embarrassing to Secretary of Defense Wilson. For in June 1954 the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee ordered Mr. Wilson to report by the following Jan. 15 on the status of the guided missile program. It assailed the missile program of the three services as "disorganized."

Mr. Wilson finally appointed a committee to make the guided missile investigation, including Donald A. Quarles, recently appointed Secretary of the Air Force. This committee made a secret report Feb. 16.

Senator Johnson and his preparedness subcommittee have a responsible mission to carry out. The sooner they make their report the sooner the people will be relieved of some of the confusion that surrounds the country's military stance.

Across the Boundaries

The County Police Department's deputy plan offers a hopeful if limited approach to the old problem of how to unify public services in a divided and subdivided county.

Under this plan, as described by Police Superintendent Albert E. DuBois, the County Police will deputize officers of municipal police forces. The local police will benefit because they will then be able to go beyond their city limits for pursuit or other purposes. The County Police will expect the local police to meet higher efficiency standards in return for this added authority. Both county and local police will benefit from a uniform crime reporting procedure, which also is a part of the deputy agreement.

With its myriad local boundaries, St. Louis county is a kind of maze for effective government. Some public services would certainly be more efficient on a county-wide basis, but they cannot easily be integrated without stepping on municipal autonomy or local pride.

One hopeful approach to co-operation between county and city is by contract. The County Health Department offers health service to cities by contract and the County Police Department has power to provide law enforcement for the cities by contract. But where cities insist on maintaining their own police forces, the deputy plan offers the best way for county and city to work together for public safety.

A Long Shadow-Bout

The Governors of the Missouri Valley states, after examining the compact method of regional development for six years, are right back where they started.

They are still in search of a means of improving the integration of basin programs.

They have rejected the compact method for reasons which this newspaper predicted in 1949 would be found to make it undesirable. It would be cumbersome, it would have to be approved by every one of the 10 states, and it could lead to much litigation.

Furthermore, it would lack flexibility, as the Missouri Basin Survey Commission headed by Senator Hennings of Missouri pointed out.

If there is any profit to be gained from this prolonged shadow-boxing with the compact idea, it is through realization that a negative approach is not enough. The compact idea was taken up in the first place to avoid a valley authority, as Dick Fabric, Montana's representative on the Missouri River States Committee, who led the attack that junked the compact proposal, noted.

Champs for a Day

Now is the time to cut the league leaders down to size. Now is the time for the bats to boom and the pitchers to pitch and the Cardinals to look more like pennant-winners than the pennant winners. And so we congratulate Willard Schmidt and the rest of the Redbirds who clobbered those Dodgers in a manner thoroughly unaccustomed to both teams. Now is the time, we say, because it could not be much later.

There are several possible consequences to such frenzied fund appeals. When successful, they encourage other organizations to resort to similar

Are Good Roads Safer Roads?

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Though in favor of big road program, safety expert says good highways alone will not greatly reduce traffic accidents; 'foolhardy' to think of improving roads first and adding safety control as afterthought; urges more funds for law enforcement.

From an Address by Paul H. Blaisdell, Traffic Safety Director, Association of Casualty and Insurance Companies, to the Mid-Atlantic Highway Conference in Philadelphia

We do not have one single shred of evidence with our existing postwar creations in superhighways to support the promise that a better highway, alone and unaided, will greatly reduce our traffic accident experience.

Instead, we have ample proof that until modern highways have the accompaniment of stepped up traffic law enforcement and tighter driver control, there is just as great a likelihood that our accident troubles will increase. The growing favorable traffic casualty record of the present turnpike and superhighway does only for the day that we must figure the added cost of strict control if we really want safety to be a co-partner. We are not dealing with a handful of highway users or a few main roads, but with 70,000,000 drivers and 60,000,000 vehicles. Half-measures and small projects will solve neither the highway program nor the traffic accident problem.

Plainly, I am of the opinion that the calm assumption that more and better highways will guarantee 40 to 50 per cent fewer traffic accidents is either wishful thinking or an overzealous attempt to justify the highway program. Into the total cost of highway progress we must figure the added cost of strict control if we really want safety to be a co-partner.

The Walk Home: Via Dunkirk

THE BIG PICK-UP: A NOVEL OF DUNKIRK by Elliston Trevor. (Macmillan, 256 pp., $1.)

At home in hell is the little company of British soldiers whose experiences are chronicled in this novel set amidst the collapse of France in 1940. When the German Army overran the country, three British soldiers calmly began to walk home. One hundred miles of French soil and twenty miles of the English Channel lay before them. The route went via Dunkirk.

This absorbing novel of Elliston Trevor relates the story of the little party, suddenly reduced to two by a burst of bullets from an advancing German patrol. It was a story re-enacted throughout the north of France and Belgium by the hundreds of thousands in those disastrous days when the only thing on which Tommy could rely, if lucky, was his two good feet.

Because they were men, they wanted to live. Because they were English, Corporal Tubby Binns and Private Mike Russell approached their task of staying alive in a matter-of-fact way. The walls of their world, literally and figuratively, were tumbling down when the high command could only give them "God-speed." They carried on.

When the pair reached Dunkirk, they found their nine-day trial less than half over. Here the English Channel faced them—an enemy. Protecting their homeland, it isolated them in a narrow pocket along the sand-dune coast, crouching targets for the Luftwaffe planes, as numerous as sea gulls. Then the miracle occurred. Eight hundred boats, 30 per cent of them soon to be sunk, began carrying one third of a million men away from a shore crackling with a sound more deadly than that of waves. Russell noted that the appearance of an Indian canoe or a Chinese junk would have seemed no more miraculous than that of the little Sunday excursion boats that waited in line to carry the men to England or to death at sea.

The author's low-key mood is effective, for it

THOMAS L. STOKES

Tax Bait Being Sliced Early for '56

TAX REDUCTION—YES OR NO—already is boiling up as a major question for the second session of the Eighty-fourth Congress beginning in January. In considering it, as in considering other issues, members have their eyes cocked on next year's November election, and so do party leaders, including high Administration officials.

It was one of the latter, in Chiefs of Staff, after a visit with the President at Denver. Warning against tax reduction came from two prominent figures of as widely diverse political views as ex-President Truman and Representative Daniel A. Reed, veteran New York Republican, who is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, where revenue bills must originate.

Buff Dan Reed thus found himself out of step again with the Administration on taxes. In the first session of the Republican-controlled Eighty-third Congress, it was he who demanded tax cuts to fulfill 1952 campaign promises.

Reed on Russian Aims.

President Eisenhower and Secretary Humphrey blocked him. Eventually the Administration sponsored tax reductions in the second session of that Congress. But no more now, he says, because of a still tense international situation and danger of inflation.

"Until the Soviet leaders back up their protestations of friendly intention with definite concrete evidences of their willingness to seek a peaceful solution to international tensions the American people must maintain a healthy skepticism toward what may prove to be another propaganda trick," he said.

"In the meantime, there is little immediate prospect of any substantial reduction in military expenditures. Until that day comes, we should not become overly optimistic about substantial tax cuts."

The 'Little Man's' Vote.

Ex-President Truman issued a similar warning about the Russians in a Chicago speech, saying we must keep our guard up, after insisting earlier in a Detroit speech that there is no way to reduce taxes and balance the budget now.

He labeled Republican promises of tax reduction as "demagoguery." It can be said that whether "demagoguery" or not, many of his fellow Democrats in Congress are going to make the most of it and get in on tax reduction efforts.

Republican strategists have another political motive in pressing for tax reduction other than the usual appeal of lower taxes. This is to get the party on record for tax cuts for the "little man" to offset the cry of "big business Administration" which Democrats already indicate will be a campaign slogan.

In making their case, Democrats again are pointing, as they did in the 1954 congressional election campaign, to tax legislation of the Eighty-third Republican Congress which they claimed was weighted for the big fellows, along with other Administration policies they are singling out as big business-inspired.

As for the last, well-based reports that defense spending would be pared by a billion dollars, chiefly affecting airplane procurement, finally brought a denial from Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Voices of caution are being raised, if sparingly, about rushing too precipitously into tax reduction, and generally on three grounds: 1—that such a step should not be taken unless it is absolutely certain the budget is balanced; 2—that it might be just the extra spark that would explode the present boom into dangerous inflation; and 3—that too rigid pruning of expenses, especially for national defense, to get a tax cut, might imperil national security.

As for the last, well-based reports that defense spending would be pared by a billion dollars, chiefly affecting airplane procurement, finally brought a denial from Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint

'NEW VIRUS' SIMILAR TO POLIO REPORTED

But Assertion That the Diseases May Be Easily Confused Is Disputed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (UPI)—A medical group said yesterday it has learned that unpublished federal studies "intimate that a large percentage" of non-paralytic polio cases are "actually turning out to be due to a new virus."

But the National Institutes of Health promptly reported that there is a slim possibility that not many, if any, cases of non-paralytic polio could be confused with the virus.

The Arlington County (Va.) Medical Society said in its official bulletin that studies by the National Institutes, in Bethesda, Md., show symptoms of the new virus "are most difficult to distinguish from non-paralytic poliomyelitis."

Statement Called Incorrect. A spokesman for the National Institutes said the statement was "incorrect." He said that one of the new viruses named—"APC"—was a respiratory disease. The other, called "coxsackie strains," he said has symptoms very similar to non-paralytic polio but differences can be shown with laboratory tests.

He conceded that there might be mistakes in a very few cases because it was "not easy" to determine whether it was the "coxsackie" virus or polio.

But, he said, the similarity of coxsackie and non-paralytic polio has been known and studied for many years.

The Arlington County Medical Society article, written by society's medical editor, Dr. Joseph Kiesel, said "it has been learned from a reliable source that studies not published or reported from the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda indicate that a large percentage of the non-paralytic cases reported in the metropolitan (Washington) area are actually turning out to be due to a new virus."

Difficult to Distinguish. It added that "these viral infections produce lymphocytic meningitis and severe myalgia (muscular pains) and are most difficult to distinguish from the non-paralytic poliomyelitis."

The article termed the new virus "APC and/or coxsackie strains."

Last week the United States Public Health Service reported that 186 paralytic and 260 non-paralytic cases of polio have been reported this year among persons who received the Salk vaccine.

Federal officials have made no mention, however, of a possibility that any of the non-paralytic cases reported may not actually have been polio.

RULING ON CHARTER OF WASHINGTON U.

Court Says School Can Set Up Programs Outside Missouri.

Washington University has authority under its special charter to establish educational programs in other states, Circuit Judge Noah Weinstein ruled today at Clayton.

His decision was in a friendly suit by the university against Missouri Attorney General John M. Dalton, seeking a judicial interpretation of the charter provisions.

The petition alleged that Dalton had threatened to seek forfeiture of the charter, authorized in 1853 by the General Assembly, if the school established courses of study in other states.

The university said without a court ruling on the charter's scope it could not act on requests to set up study courses from school authorities in Madison, Ill., Scott Air Force Base and several East Side industrial plants.

Expansion of the school's educational service and research is part of its Second Century Development program.

BIG ADVERTISING DRIVE LAUNCHED AGAINST SLUMS

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—A $3,000,000 advertising campaign to eliminate slums was begun yesterday with the backing of the nation's biggest advertisers.

The campaign in trade publications, house magazine, daily and weekly newspapers and over radio and television stations is designed to awaken communities to the need of eliminating and preventing slums, from which spring crime, disease and delinquency.

The Advertising Council is directing the campaign as a public service with the Young and Rubicam advertising agency preparing copy.

Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving (ret.), former superintendent of West Point, has been named head of the anti-slum group, known as the American Council to Improve Our Neighborhoods.

At a press conference announcing the campaign, it was pointed out that nearly half of the nation's 45,000,000 homes need maintenance, and 20,000,000 urgently require repairs.

Both landlords and tenants were blamed for not maintaining their properties adequately, opening the way to rundown neighborhoods which eventually become slums.

WOMEN INVITED TO V.P. BALL GET NEW SOUVENIRS

U.S. Charges She Claimed Six Child Dependents, Paid Little Taxes.

Green and gold leather covers for telephone directories were being sent this week as souvenirs with the women's invitations to the annual Veiled Prophet ball at Kiel Auditorium, Oct. 4.

Miss Bertha J. Bremer, a retired spinster attorney who died in May 1952 at the age of 72, left an estate valued at $206,764, it was disclosed yesterday by Thomas M. Brady, public administrator.

The Federal Government has filed a claim of $33,521 in taxes and penalties after finding that she reported that six children were dependent on her for six years. Agents were unable to find any children she had supported. She had paid only $202 in income taxes in five years, and made returns for only 15 of the 28 years through 1951.

At the time of her death it was not generally known that she had so much wealth, for she lived frugally at 3224 Cope-avenue. Neighbors called police when 4hey were unable to get in touch with her, and she was found dead, apparently of natural causes.

Brady said $41,448 in cash and $155,034 in securities and notes were found in a safe at her home.

She had no relatives here, but 15 first cousins and 15 second and third cousins, all living in Germany, filed claims and they are to share the net estate.

MIAMI BEACH LIKELY EPISCOPAL CHOICE

Florida City Recommended for Next Convention Because of Racial Record.

HONOLULU, Sept. 14 (UPI)—Episcopalians are expected today or tomorrow to decide finally on Miami Beach, Fla., as the site of the 1958 Protestant Episcopal convention.

The Florida city was recommended unanimously yesterday—partly because of its "good racial record"—by a joint committee of the Houses of Bishops and Deputies at the church's fifty-eighth convention.

The choice of Miami Beach over New York was subject to final approval by the House of Bishops. The joint committee, suggesting October 1958 for the event, acted after considering the issue of possible segregation between Negroes and whites.

This convention, which ends tomorrow, was shifted to Honolulu from Houston, Tex., because of segregation.

After yesterday's action, Gardner M. Day of Cambridge, Mass., secretary of the joint committee, told reporters Miami Beach was selected because it had good convention plans and a "good racial record."

The House of Bishops approved a record $6,807,947 budget for each of the next three years—nearly $1,000,000 a year higher than the current budget. Most of the increase will go for expanded missionary activity.

The House of Bishops also named the Rev. Arnold M. Lewis, dean of St. John's Cathedral, Jacksonville, Fla., as bishop-elect of the Salina, Kan., mission district. He succeeds the Rt. Rev. Shirley M. Nichols, who resigned. Bishop Nichols reaches the retirement age of 72 next September.

President Dead Right.

"The President is dead right about the need for extending the period of education at the junior school year would require addition of few, if any, qualified teachers. An extra grade would, of course, require roughly a 25 per cent increase in faculty. The N.E.A. feels there are far too few trained teachers now."

Dr. Farley said he believes that a majority of teachers would be glad to work at their profession for 10 or 11 months each year, instead of nine.

More Pay for Teachers.

"But in fairness, they would expect to be paid more for the extra months of work," he said. Teachers at present are free to supplement their salaries with summer jobs, but "it would suit a lot of teachers fine if they didn't have to go out and work in gas stations very summer to make a living."

He acknowledged that there are several practical arguments against lengthening school terms. It would work a hardship on those students, particularly in college, who earn part of their school costs with summer jobs.

It would deprive teachers of a chance to improve their own qualifications through summer school courses.

It would make it harder for families to plan vacation trips, and if all schools let out during the same month there would be a terrible jam at resorts.

And, of course, the students themselves might not be enthusiastic about the whole idea.

Cutting School Vacations Urged Instead of Adding Year to Studies

Educator Says Eisenhower Is Right on Need for Longer Training, but Differs on Method.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (UPI)—An educator said today President Eisenhower is "dead right" about modern youths needing a longer term of schooling to prepare for the complicated life of the atomic age.

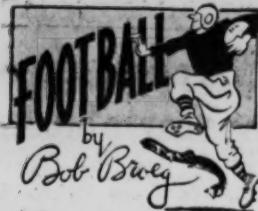

But Dr. Belmont Farley, official spokesman for the National Education Association, said that while Mr. Eisenhower's idea of lengthening high school and college courses to five years is not necessarily the best solution of the problem.

Another way of providing extra book learning—and attacking juvenile delinquency at the same time—would be to cut down the traditional three-month summer vacation and put school sessions on a 10-11-month basis, said Dr. Farley.

Less Expensive Method.

He acknowledged in an interview that either method would sharply increase educational costs, which already are a national problem. He said that adding a month or two to each school year in the upper grades would be less expensive than adding an entire grade.

The House of Bishops approved a record $6,807,947 budget for each of the next three years—nearly $1,000,000 a year higher than Faurot Admitted Error; What About Players?

ON FAUROT made and admitted his mistake, the unwise scheduling of a football powerhouse like Maryland as an anti-climax to Missouri's traditional football game with Kansas.

Faurot's fault was plainly assessable, therefore, in the humiliating 74-13 loss the Tigers suffered to the Terps last Thanksgiving day at College Park, Md. But what about the players, some of whom obviously just went along for the joy-ride?

Maryland did pour it on, of course. Jim Tatum, Faurot's Split-T disciple and good friend, protested feebly that he couldn't contain his forces, but he permitted his first two teams to stay on the scene until long after the issue was settled.

Maryland, it was apparent, was bent on running up a score to impress fellow Atlantic Coast Conference members that the Terps, not Duke, deserved the league's Orange Bowl representation a again. The effort failed, but not before friend Tatum's team crushed friend Faurot's boys so thoroughly that the Missouri Athletic Committee directed Don to get Maryland off the schedule as quick as blazes.

Twice humiliated by now, Faurot acted as promptly as possible — a 1956 game was canceled—but he was unable to prevent this year's contest. Maryland, a contender for the national collegiate championship, will be Mizzou's opening opponent Saturday at Columbia.

Divided Responsibility.

THE fact persists, though, that if both coaches were wrong a year ago, Faurot for asking his boys to beat a superior team without inspirational stimulus and Tatum for letting calculated ambition overrule compassion, the Missouri players must share responsibility for the televised travesty before a national audience.

Senior members of a disappointing team, one which was expected to be Mizzou's best since the Gator Bowl squads of 1948 and 1949, were especially vulnerable to criticism because it was, after all, the last game of their college career. Seventeen lettermen from a team that failed to achieve 500—winning four, losing five and tying one—complicated their eligibility that miserable afternoon.

Returning to the Black and Gold with blushing first-person impressions of that long day, however, are 14 holdover veterans. "M" men are Harold Burnine and Bill Craig; ends Al Fortney, Guy Barrickman and Howard Robertson, tackles Gene Campbell, Everett Lineberry and Charles Mehrer, guards Tony Karas and Carl Osterloh, centers Jimmy Hunter, quarterback Bill Rice and Sonny Stringer, halfbacks, and Gene Roll, fullback.

Barring last-minute injury, there'll be two more Missouri lettermen out there who weren't accessories before or after the fact last year. Terry Roberts, All-Big Seven guard in 1953, was out with a damaged knee all last fall and Jim (Cornbread) Martin, a rugged middle guard as a sophomore in '52, was in the Army.

Roberts and Martin, proudly, could give first-hand accounts of the 1952 game in which Missouri led Maryland at Columbia until the final 63 seconds before a short sideline pass—and missed tackle—gave the heavily-favored Terps a narrow 13-10 victory.

The 1955 Outlook.

A GOOD account of them selves, you see, is just about all Missouri alums and friends of the Tigers can expect under Faurot's program of playing big-league schedules with home-state talent. By contrast, Maryland, for instance, will field a team with athletes from eight states, including more from Pennsylvania than Maryland.

This season, in particular, appears to be one in which Faurot and his lads will need a lot of loyalty, patience and understanding. The shortage of experience is most critical at quarterback—the versatile junior was a sophomore in '54—and at both ends. And the schedule is awfully tough.

The Mizzou high command has tried to meet the problem through intensified coaching. Merle Schlosser, formerly of Illinois, was added to the staff to work with the ends and Dale Samuels, former Purdue quarterback, has taken over the signal-callers and passers. In addition, an able aid, Clay Calhoun Cooper, has been entrusted with direction of a highly-promising freshman squad that includes the entire Webster Groves backfield of Glen St. Pierre, Hank Kuhlman, Joe Helmrich and Charley James.

The St. Louis area has continued to furnish Missouri with rugged linemen, the most recent of which is Frank Czapla, sophomore tackle from McKinley, but the Tigers have had no standouts from this area since Dick Brazzell and Mike Gholoune several years ago. To beat Maryland, Ol' Mizzou might need another Paul Christian pitching to the Orlin twins or a second Bob Steuer ripping off long touch-down runs. But one thing is certain—All-American never been able to monopolize size and effort.

Cleveland (Score 15-10) at Washington (McDermott 9-9), 7 p.m.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Manager Al Lopez gave it to his Cleveland Indians straight today—it's over-confidence, not the New York Yankees, they have to watch in their bid for a second straight American League pennant.

The Tribe juked its jinx last night, sweeping a two-night pair from the pesky Washington Senators 3-1 and 8-2 and moving out to a two-game lead over the Yankees. But instead of whooping it up, Lopez warned that "we've still got a long way to go."

You might say Al's laughin' on the inside, crying on the outside.

Just 24 hours before, Lopez had said "we'll be in an excellent position to win the pennant" if the Indians could beat the Senators. Now you get the idea Lopez knows Cleveland has won it—the big worry is not to lose it.

The two-game lead is the biggest budge any of the contenders has had in the frantic race since the Tribe led by two on Aug. 13. And the Yanks, who flattened Detroit 6-0 yesterday, still are a gamay on the lost side with 11 games left. Cleveland has nine to play.

Chicago and Boston Out.

Chicago and Boston probably fell by the wayside yesterday. The third place White Sox had to rally for six runs in the ninth to salvage a two-game split at Baltimore, winning 9-6 after a 2-0 defeat. They're 4½ back now, and four behind in the lost column with 10 games remaining.

Boston, losing a 12-inning opener to Kansas City 6-5, rallied to win the nightcap 7-6. That left the Red Sox seven games back—with six more losses than Cleveland and 11 games to play.

Al's Laughin' on the Inside.

The Indians, winning 13 of the last 16, trumped the Senators on a pair of six-hitters by Mike Garcia and Bob Lemon. Garcia, the big bear, won his eleventh in the opener, snapping Washington's five-game streak against the Tribe. Gene Woodling, the ex-Yank, tripped home two runs and scored the third on Bobby Avila's sacrifice fly in a third inning against loser Chuck Stobbs.

Bob Drives in Four.

Larry Dooley batted in four runs and the Senators, who had whipped Cleveland in 12 of 19 games this year, kicked in three errors as Lemon hung up his eighteenth victory in the nightcap. The first three hits off the big right-hander were triples—but produced just one run. Lemon, without a complete game since May 30, tired after eight innings and Ray Narleski pitched the ninth, striking out two of the three men he faced.

The Yankees used an error by Fred Hatfield, a walk, two singles and Elston Howard's two-run triple to chase young Bob Miller and beat the Tigers with four runs in the fourth. Hank Bauer made his eighth hommer a two-run shot in the fifth off of reliever Steve Gromek.

Bob Turley won his sixteenth, and third straight, for the Yanks. He gave five hits—only one in the last five frames—for his second straight shutout and sixth of the year.

Three walks, two singles, a sacrifice fly, a wild pitch and Bob Nieman's triple fashioned Chicago's six-run ninth. The last place Orioles had led on Jim Dyck's grand-slam homer off Jack Harshman in the first inning. In the first game, Ray Moore blanked the Sox on six hits, while the Orioles made the most of four walks and six hits to beat Virgil Trucks.

Channel Swim Off.

DOVER, England, Sept. 14 (AP)—Long-distance swimmer Florence Chadwick has called off her planned non-stop round trip of the English Channel until Sept. 24. The San Diego, Calif., swimmer had hoped to start out from the English coast early today but bad weather ruled that out.

Willard Schmidt, a six-hit pitcher last night and a fast-firing hurler who has yielded only 15 safeties in his last 25-plus innings, couldn't agree afterward with batteryman Neilson Burbrink whether it was

Kansas City put a crimp in the pennant hopes of the Red Sox with a first game victory in the doubleheader at Boston. Enos Slaughter helped in producing one of the first game runs, won by the Athletics in the twelfth, 6 to 5. In the fifth inning Slaughter drove a sacrifice fly to Jim Piersall. Vic Powers sliding home with the run as Red Sox catcher Sammy White tried to tag him. The umpire is Nester Chylak.

Dodgers, Told to Get Back to Work, Play Like Seventh-Place Team in Losing to Cardinals

By Bob Broeg.

Even people who live in penthouses have their troubles. Brooklyn's champion Dodgers, who last week clinched a pennant on the earliest date in the history of the National League, today were under orders to cut out the clowning and get back to work. No kidding.

As dugout gossip had it, Walter Alston, who led the Dodgers home far in front of the field, advised the Brooks before last night's opener of a three-game series with the Cardinals at Busch Stadium that the pennant celebrating was over.

But in the subsequent action the team that won the visitors' gray played like a seventh-place club while it was the athletes in home whites, the Cardinals, who resembled champions in an 8-2 romp over the Dodgers.

The Redbirds twice executed squeeze bunts, once with two strikes and again with two out. They hit timely, fielded niftily and with Willard Schmidt once more a commanding pitcher as the second-half leader of the Cardinals.

Valdes Back in Heavy Picture After Stopping Cockell

Cut Brow Forces End After Third

BONDON, Sept. 14 (UPI)—Big lumbering Nino Valdes of Cuba, whose fistic stock slumped severely in the United States recently, popped back into heavyweight prominence last night when he forced battered British Champion Don Cockell to retire at the end of the third round of their scheduled 10-rounders.

Cockell's left eyebrow was cut so deeply at the end of the third round that his seconds called the referee and then announced that their batter would not continue.

In disposing of the tubby but aggressive Briton in three rounds, Valdes bettered by six rounds the showing of World Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano, who knocked out Cockell in 54 seconds of the ninth round at San Francisco May 16.

First Telling Blow in Second.

Valdes, who has been after a title shot with Marciano for more than a year but then tumbled in the heavyweight rankings when he suffered successive setbacks by ancient Archie Moore and Bob Satterfield earlier this year, hurt the stocky Cockell for the first time with a hard right upper-cut near the end of the second round.

The tall Cuban Negro tried to follow up the punch but Cockell eluded him and moved out of harm's way.

Valdes immediately went on the offensive in the third while the 26-year-old Cockell tried to parry his leads. Suddenly, Cockell turned to the attack with a series of punches but the huge Nino abruptly terminated that rally with a smashing right to the jaw that smacked the loser down for an even count.

Cockell's left eyebrow was badly cut as Valdes went all out for a knockout. With blood streaming from the cut, Cockell tried to fight back valiantly, just as he did near the end of his bout with Marciano.

Valdes took several punches about the body but he fought coolly and steadied the 216-pound Briton with two right uppercuts and a left hook that forced him to clinch.

And That Was the End.

The bell rang, ending the third round at which point the referee halted the bout and declared the 30-year-old, 207-pound Valdes the winner.

Both Valdes and Cockell appeared like midgets alongside Ewart (Pottie) Potgieter, South Africa's seven-foot, two-inch 316-pounder who beat Simon Templar of Jamaica. Templar, who suffered a cut eye in the fifth, retired at the end of the sixth round. He weighed 236 pounds.

St. Louis Derby Could Be Biggest Money Race in Area Since 1930 Fairmount Derby

By Herman Wecke

Jack Kuehne, racing secretary of Cahokia Downs, expects a field of at least 12 and possibly 15 three-year-olds to go to the post in the $12,000 added St. Louis Derby Saturday night.

A field of those proportions would make it the biggest money race held in the St. Louis district since the last Fairmount Derby was run May 20, 1930.

In that race, Gallant Knight, the winner, earned $12,750, Reville Boy $2000 for second; Longus $1000 for third; Thistle Ann $500 for fourth and Ned O' $150 for fifth.

If 12 horses start Saturday night, the gross value of the Derby will be $15,750, of this the total $11,250 will go to the winner; $2500 for place; $1300 for show and $700 to the fourth filisher. For each added starter, $250, the starting fee, will go to the winner.

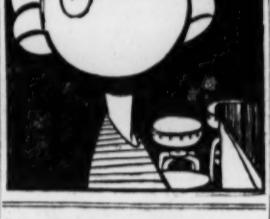

Through for Meeting: Jockey Charles Billeaud is through for the season. Suspended twice before, the steward yesterday set down the rider for the remainder of the meeting and referred his case to the Illinois Racing Board. Billeaud was set down for "willfully grabbing and holding jockey James Clemens' leg near the finish line in the sixth race Saturday night." Clemens was up on Rowdy Boy, the winner, while Billeaud rode Quick Son, which finished second.

"I believe we have the finest field ever assembled for a race of the derby's value," said Executive Manager George Edw. Day. "And I am confident that it will develop into one of the finest races run in Southern Illinois in years."

The race will be over the one mile and one-sixteenth route and the track record of 1:43 2-5, set by Appointment Aug. 6, is likely to be bettered. Endon won in 1:44 1-4 last year.

A total of $71,584 was wagered on the 1954 Derby, with the total handle for the night reaching $464,180, tops for the Cahokia track.

Need at Illinois U.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 14 (AP)—Coach Ray Elliot again concentrated on defense in search of dependable linebackers.

Promoted to the third team were fullback Dick Hendrickson, halfback Bobby Graeff and end Bob Wiman.

Akins Defeats Harold Jones In 10 Rounds

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 14 (UPI)—Welterweight Virgil Akins, St. Louis, won a unanimous decision over Harold (Baby Face) Jones in an unevenly fought 10-round bantamweight scrap here last night.

welterweight, was unable to use his wicked left hook much

A bruised left hand also may have hampered the winner.

Akins, who outweighed Jones by 3½ pounds at 147½, unleashed some rugged kidney punches in the first round of the Victory Field fight, but heavy blows the rest of the way were scarce.

There were no knockdowns, but Jones's "resting style" had them both lying outside the ropes at one point in the tenth round.

"I knew Jones was tough," Akins said, "but I didn't expect him to hold on. I thought he would fight."

There were no knockdowns, although Akins slipped to the mat twice and Jones three times. They were wrestling at the finish and fell through the ropes at the bell. Akins cut Jones under the left eye in the fourth round and bled him in the nose in the ninth.

Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight champion, refereed the bout. Other bouts: Andy Watkins, 150½, Indianapolis, won a split decision in six rounds over Al Jones, 153, St. Louis, and Charley Liston, 212, St. Louis, scored a six-round technical knockout over Johnny Gray, 193, Chicago.

The attempt to revive boxing here brought out 3887 fans who paid a gross of $11,833.

ARKANSAS CHILD FLOWN EAST FOR HEART OPERATION

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 14 (INS) — An 8-year-old Little Rock, Ark., girl was flown here yesterday in the hope that doctors at Johns Hopkins Hospital can save her life.

Marcelene Mitchell, victim of a rare heart ailment, arrived aboard an Arkansas National Guard plane.

Marcelene, daughter of a Little Rock cook, was born with the defect which is marked by constant shortness of breath stemming from a lack of oxygen supply to the heart.

Medical authorities fear that unless the condition can be remedied, death may result at the age of 14 and 15.

Thus far, no operation has ever proven successful in remedying the defect but work has been going on persistently in the field.

Marcelene will be examined Friday by Dr. Helen B. Taussig, to determine if an operation might prove of any value in her case.

Dr. Taussig collaborated with Dr. Alfred Blalock in devising the "blue baby" operation which has saved scores of lives in the last several years.

THOMAS DAY TO DIRECT STATE'S NEW EGG PROGRAM

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY—Thomas W. Day, Columbia, has been appointed director of the State Department of Agriculture's Egg Division, L. C. Carpenter, state commissioner of agriculture has announced.

Day will direct a new and much enlarged Quality Egg Program, brought about by the new Missouri egg law.

The new law, which went into effect Aug. 29, will affect the entire poultry industry of the state by providing consumers with higher quality eggs through a more careful regulation and inspection of Missouri-produced eggs.

Day is a graduate of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture, and comes to the Egg Division from the University's Poultry Department.

The new Missouri egg law requires that all eggs sold by retailers be graded and their size and quality clearly marked on the containers. It also provides for supervision of the grading processes by the State Department of Agriculture. Eggs will now be graded for retail sale on the basis of Grade

AA, Grade A, Grade B, and Grade C, eliminating the "unclassified" and "no-grade" eggs sold by many retailers before the new law was passed.

Farmers, however, may continue to sell unclassified eggs to consumers only if the eggs are from their own flocks, but retailers cannot resell eggs bought directly from a farmer without proper grading and labeling.

CHURCHES MAY FIGHT PARIMUTUEL BETS

Proposed Illinois Campaign Against Racetrack Gambling Under Study.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 14 (UPI)—The executive secretary of the Illinois Council of Churches said yesterday the possibility of a statewide campaign against Illinois' parimutuel betting law has been referred to the council's Commission on Christian Social Action.

The action was taken Monday at a meeting of the council's executive committee.

The executive committee at the same time adopted unanimously a resolution "registering its opposition to parimutuel gambling" and "heartily commending" the Council of Churches of Rock Island county for its "faithful and courageous effort" to keep such gambling out of the county.

Council Executive Secretary Vernon H. MacNeill said both committee actions grew out of telephone requests from the Rev. Arthur T. Clark, of the South Park Presbyterian Church at Rock Island.

Several Rock Island county church groups and residents have protested a 5-1 vote by the Milan Village board in favor of a proposed new race track with parimutuel betting at nearby Milan.

MacNeill said it was his understanding that a delegation from Rock Island also intended to call on Gov. Stratton next week. They were expected to ask his promise that the state will not issue a permit for the new track until legislation can be obtained in 1957 requiring a referendum vote on the proposed track.

MacNeill said Clark asked the executive committee if the council "would be interested" in a state-wide campaign against the parimutuel law. The executive committee then referred the matter to the Christian Social Action Commission.

MacNeill said the commission would meet "in the not too distant future" to consider the matter.

FLAG RAISING ENDS AFGHANISTAN ROW WITH PAKISTAN

KARACHI, Sept. 14 (AP) — Afghanistan's deputy premier Sardar Mohammed Naem Khan raised the Pakistan flag over the Pakistan embassy in Kabul yesterday—and an international incident was considered closed.

It was an alleged insult to the flag of Pakistan that had strained relations between the two neighboring countries for almost six months. Pakistan had withdrawn much of its diplomatic staff in Kabul, the Afghanistan capital, and demanded compensation for damage to its properties there.

Demonstrators stormed the embassy in March to protest the union of West Pakistan states and provinces into one administrative unit. They carried slogans demanding independence for Pathans, hill tribesmen who live in the border area between the two countries. An independent "Push-tostan" has long been favored by Afghanistan.

Thirty-five demonstrators were injured in a clash with police after they hauled down a Pakistani flag. Twelve policemen were also hurt.

NEW STORM, JONE, ON WAY; HILDA TAPERS OFF IN CUBA

Miami, Fla., Sept. 14 (AP) — A new tropical storm developed in the Atlantic today just as Hurricane Hilda, eighth tropical storm of the season, completed its smash through the mountains of eastern Cuba.

Reconnaissance aircraft located the new storm, Jone, 320 miles east of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and 1400 miles southeast of Miami. It was expected to grow into hurricane force by midafternoon. It was moving between west and west-northwest, on a course that placed the northern Leeward Islands in immediate danger and offered a potential future threat to the United States mainland.

Hilda was weakened by its encounter with the Cuban mountains, but Miami forecasters said it probably would regain its full strength within 24 hours as it moves across the Caribbean sea. If Hilda continues on its westward path, the next great land mass to be struck would be Yucatan.

HALLECK SAYS TROOPS GET BREAK IN FOREIGN COURTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (UP) — Representative Halleck (Rep.), Indiana, said today American service men who run afoul of the law in Europe seem to be getting a better break in foreign local courts than they could expect from a United States court-martial.

He made the statement to newspaper men in reporting on a three-week inspection tour of Europe made at the request of the Defense Department.

Halleck said the tour convinced him that the international agreements under which United States service men abroad can be tried under local laws for off-duty offenses are working fairly. The agreements also provide that foreign troops stationed in this country are subject to United States laws.

WARNING AGAINST THROWING CANS, GARBAGE ON ROADS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 14 (UP) — The State Highway Commission warned users of Missouri roads today that they may be jailed or fined for throwing cans, garbage or rubbish on roads, under a new state law effective last Aug. 29.

The 1955 Legislature amended a former law prohibiting the dumping of glass bottles, nails, tacks or hedge on a public road, punishable as a misdemeanor, to include dumping of "cans, garbage, trash, refuse or rubbish of any kind, nature or description" on the right of way.

The highway department has been spending from $5 to $225 a mile a year to keep the right of way of state highways free of rubbish. The cost varies with the density of population and the volume of traffic.

DOWD AND JUDGES HONOR
RAYMOND A. BRUNTRAGER

A luncheon in honor of Raymond A. Bruntrager, who is resigning as first assistant circuit attorney, was held today at Hotel Statler.

Those attending included circuit judges assigned to the criminal division of circuit court. Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd, who was host at the luncheon, and members of his staff. Also present were Bruntrager's parents, who live in New York.

Bruntrager, who joined the circuit attorney's staff in January 1951 and has been Dowd's first assistant since January 1953, has resigned to enter the private practice of law. He will leave Dowd's office tomorrow.

matic relations would contribute to the development of mutual understanding and cooperation between the Soviet Union and the German Federal Republic in the interests of peace and security in Europe.

The Soviet government is guided by the fact that the establishment and development of normal relations between the Soviet Union and the German Federal Republic would contribute to the solution of outstanding problems concerning the whole of Germany and thus contribute to the solution of the main national problem of the German people, namely, the re-establishment of the German democratic state.

I deem it necessary to state that the agreement about the establishment of diplomatic relations between the Soviet Union and the German Federal Republic will become effective as soon as it is approved by the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. I ask you to accept my regards and assurances of great esteem.

MOSCOW, Sept. 14 (UP). Text of the letter written by Chancellor Adenauer to Bulganin, stipulating reservations made by the West German delegation during the negotiations here:

MR. PREMIER. On the occasion of the acceptance of diplomatic relations between the government of the Federal Republic of Germany and the government of the U.S.S.R., I wish to state that: Firstly, establishment of diplomatic relations between the government of the Soviet Union and the government of the Federal Republic of Germany and the government of the U.S.S.R. constitutes no change in the legal standpoint of the federal's regime's authority to represent the German people in international affairs and in relation to the political situation in those German regions which presently lie outside the area of its effective control.

Secondly, establishment of diplomatic relations with the press. Please accept, Mr. Premier, the expression of my highest regards.

APPLE FESTIVAL OPENS FRIDAY AT MURPHYSBORO

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., Sept. 14—Two marching and playing appearances by a national champion drum and bugle corps have been incorporated into the official program of the Murphysboro Apple Festival Friday and Saturday.

The Festival Committee's final program lists the Black Knights of East St. Louis for an appearance in the Festival's grand parade Saturday afternoon and for a solo performance Saturday night.

The festival program will get under way Friday when a judging committee will inspect downtown window displays in keeping with the festival theme.

The festival committee said 14 area apple growers will set up displays.

The program for Saturday's big day open at 10 a.m. with free cider and doughnuts offered in downtown stands. The day's festivities will close with the coronation of the Apple Festival Queen and a street dance.

The festival queen will represent the Murphysboro area apple industry in the state fruit contest at East Moline Sept. 24.

ARCHBISHOP BELIVEAU DIES AT ST. BONIFACE, CANADA

ST. BONIFACE, Man., Sept. 14 (UPI)—The Right Rev. Arthur Beliveau, Roman Catholic Archbishop of St. Boniface, died today after suffering a heart attack. He was 85 years old and the dean of Canadian bishops.

A native of Three Rivers, Que., he was made a bishop in 1913 and two years later became the Archbishop of St.

Boniface.

The task ahead of Gruenthal is far from being an easy or a simple one. The eastern pivot of NATO is in danger of disintegration as the Greek-Turkish quarrel over Cyprus grows in bitterness. The Greeks refused to take part in Mediterranean maneuvers because of the British refusal to turn Cyprus over to Greece.

At least 10 of the 15 NATO nations have failed to live up to their pledged commitments.

To try to put down the Arab revolt in North Africa, the French have moved out most of their NATO force thereby increasing the weakness of the already weak French position.

German divisions to fill the vacuum in western Europe are still for the more or less distant future with the West German Parliament declining to grant authority for more than the initial officer group necessary to carry on relations with Nato.

The dilemma of a coalition army is bound to become more acute as the relaxation of tensions heralded at the end of the Geneva conference takes full effect. Gruenthal, who has had to wrestle with so many tough problems for his friend and chief, will have to put all his capacity into holding Nato together.

AN ITEM OF PROSPERITY, CONFIDENCE

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—

CHALK up another item of prosperity and business confidence: Considerably more new businesses are being born this year than last, and slightly fewer are dying. In the first seven months 18,250 new concerns were incorporated—a show of confidence 26.6 per cent greater than the year before. In the same months 6,487 failures with loss to creditors were counted—a decline of 2.2 per cent from 1955. Those that go out of business for whatever reason (merger, death of the owner, etc.) without leaving some creditor holding the sack aren't included in the figures compiled by Dun & Bradstreet.

THAT STATISTICAL AGENCY NOTES to-day that 1954's failure rate—that is, the number of bankruptcies as a percentage of the total business concerns in existence—was the highest for any year since 1942. So, the slight drop in the totals this year is that more the welcome.

In 1954, out of every 10,000 business concerns, 42 tossed in the towel. This compares with only four out of 10,000 in 1945, a year when Government had its thumbs in practically every business activity to such an extent that a businessman could do almost nothing entirely on his own—not even fail.

The highest rate in this country was in 1933, when 154 out of every 10,000 concerns in existence then went under.

THE MORTALITY RATE is highest in our largest cities. So far this year Dun & Bradstreet has recorded 1091 business failures in New York, 192 in Los Angeles, 149 in Chicago and 114 in Philadelphia. Among the 25 leading cities, Louisville had the smallest number of failures with four, and Kansas City, Mo., had five.

A firm's baby years find it the most susceptible to ailments. Of those succumbing last year the highest percentage of failures, 17.2, was among firms that had started up the previous year. And 57 per cent of the total of failures were of firms that had been in business five years or less.

HUMAN BABIES SEEM TO BE PLAYING a role in this unfortunate phase of business, too. The chance to cash in on the recent bumper baby crops proved too great a temptation, apparently, for many would-be merchants. Among retailers, the highest 1954 failure rate was 106 per 10,000 for infants' and children's wear stores.

Appliance, radio and television stores went under at a rate of 105, for second place. Sporting goods ran third with 104. Lowest retail rate was eight per 10,000 for packaged liquor stores, with food outlets second with 19.

MAKERS OF FURNITURE had the highest rate among manufacturers with 184; electrical machinery second with 164; leather and shoes third with 161. Lumber was the lowest in this category with only 19 per 10,000; and printing and publishing next with 24.

Among the states the failure rate was highest in California—145 per 10,000; next in Nevada with 127; third in New York with 104. Five states with lowest failure rates were South Dakota 2.4; Wyoming 5.2; North Dakota 5.5; Delaware 6.3; and Kentucky 9.8.

By regions the highest rate was for the Pacific Coast, 117, and the lowest the seven north central states west of the Mississippi, 14 per 10,000.

But—as Dun & Bradstreet likes to put it—if 42 out of every 10,000 concerns in business in the United States in 1954 failed, there were 9958 that kept right on going.

WHEAT PRICE DOWN,
FEED GRAINS FIRM

CHICAGO, Sept. 14 (AP)—Feed grains displayed flashes of strength on the Board of Trade today, but wheat was lower from the opening gong. Soybeans fluctuated in a nervous manner without much price change.

Light receipts of cash corn and a steady tone in that market helped corn futures. In addition, there was scattered buying on report of further damage to late seeded grain. Oats moved ahead in sympathy with corn.

Wheat was under mild selling pressure all day. Brokers said this largely represented profit taking in view of the bread grain's sizable upturn since Labor Day.

ALLIES PAROLE
3 TOP JAPANESE WAR CRIMINALS

Prisoners Served 10 Years of Life Terms —Four Others May Be Released.

TOKYO, Sept. 14 (AP)—Three of Japan's top war criminals were released on parole from life imprisonment today.

The eight nations that have made peace with Japan authorized the Japanese government to open the gates of Sugamo prison for the three convicted leaders of Japan's aggressive bid for control of Asia.

It was reported that consideration is being given to the release of four other top war criminals.

All seven are in the Class A category, made up of Japanese leaders convicted by an international military tribunal following the Japanese surrender in 1945.

The three paroled today were imprisoned 10 years ago tomorrow. They are:

Teiichi Suzuki, former lieutenant general and president of the wartime government planning board.

Kingoro Hashimoto, fanatical advocate of the Japanese "greater East Asia co-prosperity" scheme, commander of the Japanese forces which shelled the United States gunboat Panay, and commander of an artillery regiment in the sacking of Nanking.

Okinori Kaya, wartime finance minister and president of the North China Development Company.

The Foreign Office said the governments of the United States, United Kingdom, France, The Netherlands, Australia, Canada, Pakistan and New Zealand had notified Japan of their decision to parole the life-termers on completion of 10 years imprisonment, as provided in the peace treaty.

Russia, China, the Philippines and India, which were represented on the international war crimes tribunal, were not consulted as they did not sign the San Francisco treaty.

ITALY REPLACING ITS PAPER BILLS WITH METAL COINS

ROME (UP)—Italy's money is getting a "new look."

Shiny, feather-light white metal coins are gradually replacing the paper notes that have been in the pockets of Italians since the war.

Sixty minting machines at the state mint here are working at full speed to turn out new 50 and 100-lire (eight and 16 U.S. cents) coins and at the same time continue production of one, two, five and 10-lire coins.

A total 2,350,000,000 coins of the four smaller denominations must be produced to replace paper money completely by the December 1956 deadline fixed by law. Only 1,334,000,000 have been turned out and are circulating so far, with over one billion coins still to be minted.

The 50 and 100-lire coins—scheduled to number 100,000,000 of each denomination—must replace paper currency completely by the end of 1957. None of these is yet in circulation.

The new 50 and 100-lire pieces, like the smaller denominations, are in a special iron oxide steel called aemonital (acciaio monetario italiano or Italian monetary steel), first used under Mussolini. They are so light that you can carry them in your pockets by the dozens and hardly notice it.

INDUSTRY TO GET 75 PCT.
OF STOCKPILE ALUMINUM

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Arthur S. Flemming, director of defense mobilization, announced yesterday he was setting aside three-fourths of scheduled fourth quarter aluminum deliveries to the national stockpile for the use of private industry.

At the same time Flemming disclosed that in return for aluminum deliveries to this country by Great Britain in the shortage period of 1952-1953, part of fourth quarter Government aluminum purchases would be diverted to the United Kingdom which, Flemming said, is experiencing a severe aluminum shortage.

Flemming said in his announcement that the Government had planned to call on domestic aluminum metal producers for delivery of 100,000 tons of aluminum in the fourth quarter of this year.

However, he said, to "alleviate a serious shortage of aluminum" he would defer until some later time delivery to the Government of all but 25,000 tons of the metal in the last three months off his year.

POPE CALLS ATOMIC ENERGY
ONE OF MAN'S GREAT HOPES

CASTELGANDOLFO, Italy, Sept. 14 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, in a speech made public today, described atomic energy as "one of humanity's greatest hopes" whose peaceful uses could give rise to a "serene perspective of peace."

The 79-year-old Pontiff expressed the Vatican view on the feats of modern science in a highly technical address to delegates to the Fourth International Thomistic Congress. The delegates attended a special audience with the Pope yesterday.

"A serene perspective of peace can be born from these triumphs of truth, displayed by the study of a nature providentially prepared, if the hearts of men concentrate on taking faith in God and Creator and love for their fellow men as the foundation for their hopes," the Pope said.

RICE DROPPED
BY PARACHUTE
IN LAOS FAMINE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Cargo planes yesterday began parachuting rice provided by the United States to famine villages in the mountains of northern Laos. The International Co-operation Administration announced.

I.C.A. called the operation the "largest peacetime air drop in Southeast Asia's history."

A thousand tons of rice are to be delivered by air to otherwise inaccessible points in the next eight weeks, I.C.A. said. Another 4000 tons are ticketed for distribution by river barge and truck.

I.C.A. attributed famine in Laos to "wholesale destruction" by Communist Vietminh troops before they withdrew from the Indochinese state last year. The eight nations that have made peace with Japan authorized the Japanese government to open the gates of Sugamo prison for the three convicted leaders of Japan's aggressive bid for control of Asia.

It was reported that consideration is being given to the release of four other top war criminals.

ATTLEE REPORTED WANTING TO QUIT, 'SOONER THE BETTER'

LONDON, Sept. 14 (UP)—Labor party leader Clement Attlee wants to quit and "the sooner the better," a London newspaper said today.

The News Chronicle quoted the 72-year-old Socialist chief as saying "I... have had long innnings, and I shall be glad when I can hand over to a younger man—and the sooner the better."

Editor Percy Cudlipp, who interviewed Attlee, said the veteran politician told him "I am completely in the party's hands." Cudlipp said Attlee was brought against exporters for violation of anti-trust laws.

WOMAN PLUNGES NEW YORK DOCK 24 FLOORS, 10 UNION CALLS OFF IN HOTEL HURT 8-DAY WALKOUT

Body Crashes Through Skylight In New York's Biltmore, Falls Into Lounge.

The New York Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—A young Cleveland woman plunged from a twenty-fourth floor window of the Biltmore Hotel, through the glass, room of the hotel's Palm Court and into the midst of a large group of patrons yesterday afternoon, injuring 10 persons.

Her body struck a man and sent a shower of splintered glass among the patrons—mostly young persons—gathered in the lounge. She fell in the front of the lounge, just a few feet from the familiar Biltmore clock which is a rendezvous for friends meeting in Midtown Manhattan.

Police identified the woman as Miss Mary H. Merkel, about 27 years old. She was taken to Bellevue Hospital but died a few minutes after her leap.

Daughter 'Despondent.'

Police quoted Mrs. Merkel as saying that her daughter had been "despondent" but the police said they had not been able to get a complete account because Mrs. Merkel was in a state of shock. Police said the young woman was in New York for medical treatment after a nervous breakdown. They quoted Mrs. Merkel as saying she had been writing letters when she turned around and noticed that her daughter was no longer in the room.

"The whole world seemed to be coming down," said one of the injured patrons who was sitting in the Palm Court when Miss Merkel came crashing through the skylight, which is about 70 feet above the floor.

Fragments of the thick glass—from 16 large square panes—flew among the estimated 150 persons having lunch or last-minute drinks before the bars closed for New York's primary elections at 3 p.m.

The most seriously injured was Raymond W. Copeland of Green Brae Farms, Afton, N.Y., struck by the falling woman as he sat at a table with his wife. Mrs. Copeland was not hurt. Copeland was treated for three broken ribs by the hotel's resident physician and sent to the hospital for further examination.

Many Students Present. Many of the victims were of college age—a group to which the Biltmore caters, and to which "meet you under the clock at the Biltmore" is a common agreement.

"I was sitting on the right of the lounge," said Ned Van Riper, who was among the injured, most of whom suffered leg and head cuts. "I heard a loud crash and turned around and saw glass coming down, so I turned away. There were a whole bunch of us, sitting and talking. I first thought it was a tray falling or something like that."

The Merkels' room was on the court of the hotel which is shaped like a U, with the open end facing on the street. Part of the court's floor, which the Merkels' room overlooks, is the large skylight which is the roof of the Palm Court. The skylight is covered with heavy wire-mesh frames, one of which Miss Merkel's body dislodged.

LAST 7 LEAVE ICE-TRAPPED SHIP OFF EAST GREENLAND

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 14 (AP)—The 860-ton Norwegian seal-catcher ship Jopeter was left unmanned last night in the pack ice off eastern Greenland. As a "dead ship" under international law, it could be claimed as a prize by anyone daring to penetrate the ice.

The vessel was trapped in the ice and lost its propeller. A United States Air Force helicopter removed 19 occupants and nine crewmen. Five other crewmen, headed by Capt. Knut Nakken, and two passengers did not leave but were taken aboard the Danish polar ship Kista Dan last night.

It is not likely that anyone will try to claim the Jopeter as a prize. It probably will be pressed down into the sea by ice floes within a few days.

GIRL, 14, FALLS— HAS HAD BROKEN NECK SINCE BIRTH

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 14 (AP)—A 14-year-old girl may get a chance for a normal life, thanks to a paralyzing fall which led to disclosure that she had been suffering from a broken neck since birth.

Jo Nell Lane, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Van W. Lane of Anthony, near El Paso, had been diagnosed as a spastic case. She was taught to walk, with much difficulty. About 18 months ago she suffered a fall that left her almost entirely paralyzed.

Mrs. Lane recently took her to a doctor who decided to have her spine x-rayed. The X-ray revealed the girl had two dislocated vertebrae at the top of her spine. Doctors say that calcium deposits indicate the neck had existed before birth.

There was a possibility her neck was broken at birth. No other explanation, such as a previous injury, could be found.

Doctors now say Jo Nell has a chance for complete normality if she undergoes surgery. Efforts will be made to have her admitted to the University of Illinois research hospital in Chicago.

The action means an end to a multi-million dollar tie-up of cargo movements. The stoppage had hit not only New York but also ports throughout the East and South where thousands of longshoremen walked out in sympathy yesterday.

Even as the vote to return to work was being taken, State Supreme Court Justice Samuel Di Falco issued an ultimatum. He would, he said, proceed with pending criminal and civil damages if the piers were not manned immediately.

The International Longshoremen's Association strike was directed not at employers but at the waterfront commission, an official, bi-state policy agency.

Rebuffed again and again in its efforts to obtain intervention by Legislatures, Governors and even Washington, the ILA seized on the citizens committee formula proposed by State Senator James F. Murray Jr. of New Jersey.

Three Injunctions Issued.

The union was under heavy pressure to end the walkout. Three court injunctions have been issued against the strike.

The union's bid to back up the New York dispute with sympathy strikes all along the Eastern and Gulf Coasts proved not entirely successful. A general strike order stopped work in a number of busy ports but failed to close down others and sparked scattered signs of revolt against top union leadership.

The strike began last Wednesday as purely a protest against the Waterfront Commission, an agency set up two years ago by the states of New York and New Jersey to police waterfront labor.

Shortly before the commission was formed, the ILA had been kicked out of the AFL for allegedly failing to rid its ranks of racketeers.

At Odds From Start. The ILA has been at odds with the commission from the beginning. It accuses the agency of being too severe in denying work permits to longshoremen with long criminal records, of abusing its subpoena powers, of plotting to wreck the ILA and interfering with collective bargaining.

The commission denies these accusations and says the union stands for "just plain lawlessness."

The ILA had declined to take its complaints to the commission, and sought a hearing elsewhere.

The Governors of New York and New Jersey and other state officials refused to deal with union officials and referred them to the commission.

Finally Murray came along with his proposal to have a citizens committee hear the ILA's grievances and also allow other interested parties, such as the commission and the shipping industry, to give their sides of the story.

The committee would then make any recommendations it deemed advisable to the Legislatures of New York and New Jersey. The recommendations would not be binding on any one.

The strike has tied up some 200 cargo ships in New York and at least 50 others were affected in other ports. Passenger liners kept moving, however, with the aid of non-union office personnel to handle lines and help travelers with their luggage.

Terminals in New York are jammed with backlogged cargo. An embargo has been placed on truck shipments destined for export from the port of New York.

19 PAKED IN AUTO CUSHION EACH OTHER AS IT UPSETS

TOBACCOVILLE, N.C., Sept. 14 (UPI)—Several auto drivers caught in ice packs on Alaska's Arctic coast have radioed SOS for assistance.

The ships are part of a huge armada of vessels sent north to supply military outposts in the Arctic.

The Alaskan Sea Frontier of the Navy at Kodiak confirmed today it had received word of the emergency. No ice breakers were available at Kodiak to go to the rescue and they would presumably have to come from as far away as Seattle.

A few ice breakers are now at Amada, Alaska, but they are not able to handle the entire job. Personnel of the ships, not presently in danger, can be evacuated by helicopter if necessary.

A Navy official at Kodiak would say only that there were several ships caught in the ice pack. The ships carried 500,000 tons of equipment and three-quarters of the tonnage already have been unloaded along the coast of the continent's rim stretching westward from Baffin island.

PRAVDA ASSAILED ANY MOVE TO REVISE U.N. CHARTER

LONDON, Sept. 14 (UP)—The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda said today that nations wishing to revise the United Nations Charter "are standing history on its head."

An article by V. Borovskiy said the veto must be retained and that the "great power unanimity rule is the bedrock principle of United Nations."

"It is clear to every rational-minded person that the task in hand is by no means to revise the Charter, but to cut short, curb its violation," the article said.

Suggestion Pays Off.

GRAND ISLAND, Mich. (UPI)—The head of an inspection plant at the Cornhusker Ordnance plant here suggested a tool for use in work at the plant that is saving the Government some $69,500 a year. Orv Lessor, the shift head, got $295 as an award for his suggestion.

The three universities scored over 352 other alumni-fund reports, the council said.

ALL DUE TO JAYWALKING DUCK

BRANDON, Vt. (UP)—Harvard topped the nation's universities in the number of contributors to its alumni fund last year, the American Alumni Council reported.

A total of 30,738 contributions put Harvard well in the lead.

Yale, with 25,607 alumni gifts, ranked second. Ohio State University was third with 21,739 alumni contributing.

KENNAN SKEPTICAL ON SOVIET INDUSTRY

Doubts Russia Is Ahead of West but Praises Its People.

MILAN, Italy, Sept. 14 (AP)—George F. Kennan, former United States Ambassador to Moscow, paid tribute yesterday to the ability of the Russian people but expressed doubt that their industrial progress has outstripped the West.

The former envoy addressed an International Conference for Cultural Freedom which has brought together here some of the world's outstanding professors.

Kennan said he viewed "with deepest skepticism" the claim that Soviet industrial progress "has outstripped that of Western countries, and my own country in particular."

Speaking from the experience of "many years of residence in the Soviet Union and occupation with Russian affairs," he said he had "little confidence in any Soviet statistics of economic growth based on the alleged 'value' of output in terms of this or that system of artifical prices."

Cities Cost of Progress.

Speed of growth in heavy industry has been the principal target of Soviet economic policy, but one should take into account the cost paid for the Soviet achievements, Kennan added.

"I would question in particular," he said, "whether the Soviet leaders themselves look back today with unmixed satisfaction on the cost and the results of the experiment they have conducted."

For that reason, Kennan said, he would warn "our friends from the underdeveloped areas, . . . to take care that they do not turn to Moscow for a type of industrial development which Russia herself has already outgrown and for which she becomes much the wiser."

Kennan said the Communist and American methods of economic development "are not mutually exclusive opposites, but merely two different modes of a process through which all peoples who embrace modern technology are destined to go."

Cities Community of Interest.

"I think," he added, "we would all do well not to contemplate the mutual fructification in ideas and technology which the world so needs as a matter of rigid alternatives, but to recognize the genuine complexity of this world and the inexorable community of obligations and necessities that bind us all."

Kennan emphasized that he did not wish "to disparage the contribution Russian is capable of making to economic and cultural progress in the world at large."

"The Russians," he said, "are a great people, intelligent and immensely talented. They have given the world much in the past and, I am sure, they will have much more to give it. There is a great deal that is impressive even in the record of their recent progress."

Earlier, G. D. Parikh, professor of economics of Ruiia College, Bombay, India, told the assembled scholars and politicians from 39 nations that the west must sway the little man in the little town if it is to beat Communism in underdeveloped areas.

Otherwise, he said, totalitarianism will win these vast areas.

The committee would then make any recommendations it deemed advisable to the Legislatures of New York and New Jersey. The recommendations would not be binding on any one.

Red Party Asks Supreme Court To Kill Anti-Subversives Act

Brief Says Geneva Parley Has Outmoded 1950 Law, Cites Speeches by Warren and Justice Douglas.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Communist party, asking the Supreme Court to strike down the 1950 subversive activities control law, argued yesterday it has been outmoded by the Geneva summit meeting.

A brief filed with the court also cited speeches by Chief Justice Warren and Justice Douglas, and suggested the law was at variance with the philosophy the jurists had expressed.

The 270-page brief was filed preliminary to oral arguments at the court's fall term on the party's challenge of a government order for it to register under the 1950 act.

The brief said the 1950 law was enacted when the Western world believed the Korean struggle was the opening campaign of a third world war. "This was the political estimate that underlay its enactment," the brief said.

Now, however, it added, this "justification for the onslaught on the Constitution" has proved unfounded.

The brief cited the truce negotiated in Korea and said international tensions have relaxed. It cited Pres. Eisenhower's comment "that on the basis of his experiences at Geneva he felt that leaders were as sincere as ever in their desire for peace.

"This perspective of peaceful co-existence is incompatible with the premise of the act, spelled out in section two," the brief said.

Section Two Quoted.

Section two says a world Communist movement exists which would establish totalitarian dictatorship by use of treachery, sabotage, terrorism and any other means deemed necessary. The section says the Communist organization in this country presents "a clear and present danger to the security of the United States."

The brief said the act infringed fundamental liberties guaranteed by the Constitution and quoted this excerpt from an address by Chief Justice Warren in Chicago Aug. 19, 1954:

"We are living in a world of ideas and are going through a war of ideas. Everywhere there is a contest for the hearts and minds of men.

"Every political concept is under scrutiny. Our American system like all others is on trial both at home and abroad. The way it works; the manner in which it solves the problems of our day; the extent to which we maintain the spirit of our Constitution with its Bill of Rights, will in the long run do more to make it both secure and the object of adulation than the number of hydrogen bombs we stockpile."

'Sacrifice Heritages.'
After citing the Chief Justice's remarks, the Communist brief asserted:

"In a period of competitive co-existence, no government which infringes the fundamental liberties of its citizens can hope to win the respect and confidence of other peoples. A decision (by the Supreme Court) sustaining the act . . . would sacrifice our heritage of freedom."

ITALIANS TESTING COLORED ASPHALT FOR ROAD-BUILDING

ROME, Sept. 14 (AP)—Talk about your two-tone automobiles. Come next the tinted highways.

The Abruzzi Asphalt Society has announced the road of the future could come in selected colors. Its chemists are experimenting with colored asphalt obtained as a leftover from the extraction of aluminum from bauxite rock.

The stuff would make good, strong highways and might come in variations of red, orange, white, brown or yellow, the society said. Beside reducing highway glare, it might be good for telling drivers which way to go. For instance: follow the red road to Rome and the beige road to Naples.

G.O.P. STATE CHAIRMAN SURE THAT EISENHOWER WILL RUN

Chairman Perry Compton of the Republican State Committee said yesterday he is confident President Eisenhower will run for re-election next year.

Compton, who attended last week's conference of the President and other state G.O.P. chairmen, said he does not expect Mr. Eisenhower to make any announcement until next June or July, because the President does not want his legislative program to become involved in politics.

The Missouri chairman conceded that declining farm income was a problem in this state, but he expressed the opinion that the situation would be corrected by the Administration and would not hurt the Republican chances for carrying Missouri in 1956.

A. P. NUGENT JR. TO RUN FOR MISSOURI SENATE SEAT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 14 (AP)—Anthony P. Nugent Jr., president of the Jackson County Young Democrats, was selected yesterday as his party's candidate for the Tenth District State Senate seat vacated by Republican Charles L. Madison.

Nugent, who is out of town on vacation, was chosen at a meeting of the Jackson County Democratic committee. His nomination, the only one made at the meeting, was unanimous. Republicans have named Vincent E. Baker, president of the Jackson County Young Republican Club, as their candidate.

Voters will ballot at a special election Oct. 4 on a successor to Madison, who resigned Sept. 1.

SEE THE BIG DIFFERENCE!

A. P. NUGENT JR. TO RUN FOR MISSOURI SENATE SEAT

[This "magnified" picture shows you what goes into Snow Crop juice . . . the whole orange! Not only the juice, but the rich, wholesome "meat" that holds the juice. The rich "meat" that gives you more vitamins—more, wholesome nutrition.

Now look at this magnified thin watery juice. What a difference! Those wholesome and delicious flecks of orange "meat" have, sadly, been strained away. Your doctor will tell you it's not nearly as good for your children as "meat-rich" Snow Crop.

Just say "Snow Crop" and you get orange juice like this—with all these golden flecks of rich, delicious, vitamin-packed orange "meat." You can see with your own eyes how different it is than thin watery juices!

One 8-ounce glass of SNOW CROP
Orange Juice is as good for your health as drinking the juice of 4 whole oranges!

And SNOW CROP, unlike thin watery juices, keeps in the rich, healthful, vitamin-packed, mineral-abundant "meat."

Like Snow Crop"

Party at Country Club For Three Debutantes

By Karin Hayward

MISS CAROLYN ELIZABETH CONE, Miss Judith May Schettler and Miss Nancy Gene Vogel, debutantes of this season, will be introduced to society together this afternoon at Glen Echo Country Club. Friends of their mothers will be entertained at a tea from 4 until 6 o'clock, while their contemporaries have been asked to a dinner dance later.

Miss Cone is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Cone, Woods Mill road, Chesterfield; Miss Schettler's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alwin H. Schettler, 29 Briarcliff, Ladue, and Miss Vogel is the daughter of Mrs. Simmons Vogel, 7812 Blackberry lane, University City, and Dr. Eugene A. Vogel, 3300 Russell boulevard.

A large arrangement of magnolia leaves and yellow spiced chrysanthemums stands at the club entrance and a similar grouping is placed near the receiving line. A background for the debutantes and their mothers at the tea and for the young women and their fathers at the later party is created with wild southern smilax accented with yellow blossoms.

The tea table, skirted with yellow organdy, is centered with a gold and white epergne holding yellow roses. Assisting will be Miss Talbot Leland, Miss Almira Baldwin, Miss Natalie Reeve, Miss Mareth Sandrock, Miss Elizabeth Holmes, Miss Sue Sullivan, Miss Susan Priest, Miss Mary Macdonald and Miss Marielle Coe.

For the evening party the buffet table will be covered with yellow satin garlanded in smilax and adorned with candelabra holding avocado green candles and yellow roses. The individual supper tables will have yellow flowers and candles shielded by hurricane globes. The guests will dance to an orchestra playing on the terrace.

Guests of Honor to Carry Yellow Roses.

ROUND airy bouquets of yellow roses will be carried by all three guests of honor. Miss Cone will wear a long yellow tulle gown over taffeta. Strapless, the dress features a tucked, fitted bodice trimmed with beading. Miss Schettler has chosen a moss green peau de soie gown with a high bateau neckline and a full skirt over hoops. Crystal beads are embroidered on the bodice front. Miss Vogel will be in tulle tissue taffeta fashioned with a detail of silver thread and iridescent sequins on the shoulder straps and the bodice.

Miss Cone will wear a terrace-length mauve peau de soie gown overlaid with white lace. Her flowers will be white cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Schettler will wear ivory brocade with a deep, square neckline, long sleeves and a pouf at the back of the straight skirt. Brown slipper orchids will compose her corsage. Mrs. Vogel has chosen a pale silver-gray brocade sheath gown with back fullness. Her flowers will be green lady slipper orchids.

Out-of-town guests will be Miss Martha Rack of Baltimore, Miss Schettler's roommate at Mount Holyoke College; Mrs. Vogel's nephew, Robert Kellogg of Portland, Ore., who is a second-year student at Washington University School of Fine Arts; Mrs. Henry Robertson, Joplin, Mo., and Mrs. Lloyd Lamb, Springfield, Mo.

Miss Schettler will return to Mount Holyoke as will Miss Vogel, who this year will serve as a New Haven, Conn., newspaper's correspondent at the college. Miss Cone will be a sophomore at Smith College.

Miss Julie Hickman Honored at Luncheon.

MISS JULIE REYNOLDS HICKMAN, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reynolds Hickman, was guest of honor today at her first party since the start of the new season—a luncheon at the St. Louis Country Club. Hostess was her cousin, Mrs. George Kapp Jr., who seated her guests at a large table decorated with yellow spider chrysanthemums. Sixteen of the season's buds attended.

Miss Hickman, her parents and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Rumpf, with whom they live at 14 Washington terrace, returned a few days ago from Ludington, Mich., where they occupied the Rumpf cottage, Cedarcroft, for the season. The debutante spent the early season in California with her aunt, Mrs. George Duff. She will have her formal debut party, a tea, Oct. 14 from 4 to 6 o'clock at her home.

Martha Carr's OPINION

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Opinion

Dear Martha:

MY mother-in-law is past 90. She has two daughters and one son, in addition to my husband. The mother-in-law is ill and blind and is a great deal of trouble. The two girls wouldn't let her come into their homes and my husband and the other brother took turns keeping her. Now the brother and his wife won't keep her so I have her all the time. I asked one of the girls to take her for a couple of days while my own mother was ill but she wouldn't. My mother died two days later and I couldn't be with her. I can't feel very good about my husband to think he is from a family like that. The poor woman calls for her two girls all the time. Please tell me what to do as I don't think I can take it much longer.

JUST TIRED.

From what you say, you were the victim of terrible callousness and I can't blame you for feeling as bitterly as you do toward those who wouldn't help you when your own mother was so critically ill. However, the aged woman needs and deserves care and concern, and if her own daughters have rejected her, you are showing a truly generous and fine spirit in doing whatever you can to help. In the end, that may be your only reward, the knowledge that you have accepted their share of the responsibility as well as your own. Try not to let your mother-in-law feel that she is a great burden. It won't ease your load and it will only make her feel more rejected and hurt than she already is. At the same time, I think you can certainly insist that your husband enlist the aid of the rest of the family and provide at least a part-time companion-nurse unless they can finance their mother's stay in a good home. Don't force her to move from house to house.

Dear Martha:

I HAVE BEEN GOING with a boy for two years. We are both jealous and have argued quite a bit about my dress. One evening we went for a ride. I wore pedal-pushers. As soon as I got into the car, he started pouting and would not look at me. He won't let me wear shorts. Do you think I should dress entirely to please him? He doesn't mind if others dress comfortably. When I first met him, he liked the way I dressed, but now that he wants us to get married, it's a different story.

M.B.J.

That's natural, now that he's in love with you. I suppose really most wives dress to please their husbands—although many a woman complains that her husband pays no attention to what she wears until he gets the bill. Be grateful that he respects you as he does, and if he doesn't like certain costume, throw it away. However, if you're both jealous, I'm afraid you'll have more serious problems than this when you're married.

Etiquette Questions

By Amy Vanderbilt

TECHNICALLY, an elopement occurs when young people run off and get married without the knowledge of their parents and friends. Sometimes they take their witnesses into their confidence, but often they marry civilly, with witnesses, when required by state law, furnished by the justice of the peace or other properly accredited persons marrying them.

Where there has been a proper period of courtship observed by both families, and where an engagement either exists or obviously will exist with the blessing of both families, elopements are usually quite acceptable. They avoid the fanfare and expense of a large wedding and the general tension preliminary even to small weddings attended by the immediate families.

IT IS THE SUDDEN ELOPEMENT, wherein the two principals have known each other hardly at all, or where the parents are violently opposed for what seem good and valid reasons, that elopements seem very unwise. While many college students marry today with their parents' full co-operation, it is unfair to parents and to the future of the marriage if young people in college elope without their parents' knowledge and consent.

In the latter case the elopement, which is then kept secret for months or perhaps years, always gives a bad start to any marriage, for it gives rise to unpleasant speculation.

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Will you please enlighten me as to who buys the bride's trousseau where there is an elopement? I mean linens, such as towels, sheets, pillow cases, table linens and the necessities of keeping house. I thought it was always the bride's mother, regardless of the circumstances.—Mrs. S.L., Richmond, Va.

Where there has been an elopement, there is no obligation on the part of the bride's parents to do anything whatsoever in the setting up of the new household. Legally, the bride is the responsibility of the husband and if she has come to him with none of these things then it is his obligation to supply the necessities of their living or they must do so together.

IN ACTUAL PRACTICE, even when there are elopements, the family of the bride does supply these things—and the groom's family may well help, too.

After elopements, by the way, announcements of the marriage may be properly sent by the bride's parents, even several months—or even longer—after the event has taken place. The date and place, including the year, are always included in these announcements.

Beauty After 40

By Edyth Thornton McLeod

"I am a tall, thin woman, age 46. I want a greatcoat in plaid wool for business wear. My teen-age daughter suggests black, says I am too old for plaid. My business clothes are very simple, in black, brown or dark green. I have gray eyes, brown-and-gray hair.—Mrs. K."

My answer is—Never too old to select attractive clothes! Plaid, in a rich combination, which includes black, brown and green, would be a stunning coat. Forty-six seems very old to your teen-age daughter—until she is 46! So, just smile!

Expert Secretary's Advice

Learn to Spell, Then Use Pocket Dictionary, She Says

JUDY KURER WITH HER STENOMASK . . . SHE THINKS HER POSITION AS A UNITED STATES AIR FORCE SECRETARY IN JAPAN IS "ONE OF THE WORLD'S MOST EXCITING JOBS."

By Dorothy Roe

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—GIRLS who want to make good in the world of big business should first learn to spell, says Judy Kurer, who has found glamour, success and world travel in the job of an expert secretary.

Now in Tachikawa, Japan, recording high-level conferences for the United States Air Force, Judy took time out for a chat while in New York just before her takeoff. Here are some bits of sound advice she offers to girls who want secretarial jobs:

T. When you apply for a job, always wear a hat and gloves. The casual look is not for business offices.

2. Don't talk too much. Constant yakety-yak can drive an employer crazy.

3. Never be caught without your pocket dictionary. Even if you think you can spell, you'll find the dictionary comes in handy frequently.

4. Don't take a job with the idea of marrying the boss. Business men of today are too busy for office romances. They want somebody to get the work out, not hold hands.

Judy has a unique job. She is what might be called a mechanized secretary. Her specialty is to take verbatim reports of meetings, conversations, speeches and sometimes trials, by talking into a strange device called a stenomask, which is hooked up to a recording machine.

When ready for work, Judy looks something like a girl from Mars, with the mask fitted tightly over her mouth, in the manner of skin diving equipment. Her job then is to repeat the words to be recorded as she hears them. Her voice is inaudible to anyone else in the room when the mask is adjusted, and each word is recorded on a disk, which can be transcribed later.

Judy can record 272 words a minute with her futuristic equipment, and has been known to record the off-the-cuff remarks of 45 men in general executive discussion, getting every word spoken for 90 minutes.

Judy drove a truck for the Red Cross in Europe during World War II, as a part of the doughnut-and-coffee brigade, before turning her attention to making a career of being a secretary.

The Shoe Fits---But It's Tight

By Mary Margaret McBride

A FRIEND telephoned the other night to break a dinner engagement.

"We've just heard that the land south and east of us has been sold to developers!" she said exasperatedly. "They are going to put up lots of nasty little houses on half acres. And they plan to extend our dead-end road, too. So we're getting together tonight to start a petition to make the town rezone the land to full acre development. It's our only chance!"

"Hey, don't you live in a development now?" I asked, surprised and probably tactless. "And isn't your own property considerably less than half an acre?"

"That's just it," she admitted mournfully. "We haven't a leg to stand on. Our little development houses are built on quarter-acres—but we don't want any more to be."

"Don't you remember only last week you and I were commenting approvingly on recent statistics showing that now, in our country, more people own homes than rent? You were quite touching about our nation's progress in happy living."

"Oh, yes," she agreed. "Theoretically I'm for progress—but not on my own doorstep."

Which I guess just about expresses the general human attitude. Merchants of one broad New York City shopping avenue are right now fighting desperately to keep theirs a two-way street, in spite of the fact that they, with the rest of us, are concerned about easement of the big city traffic problem.

The belligerent merchants are all for one-way traffic—on OTHER streets. So have been the store owners on parallel thoroughfares many of which, in spite of protests, have been changed.

THE MILKY WAY

As Gopatis and his tribesmen watched the "cow" studded heavily another visible proof of the holiness of the cow appeared. Across the sky had flowed the great river of soft whiteness which to this day we call the "Milky Way." This early respect for the cow and her heavenly connection is actually reflected in at least one nursery rhyme of today. . . . "The cow jumped over the moon."
